Big Deep Closed, Marbletown Open In Pollution Crisis

By JON POWERS

WOODSTOCK

Pollution problems, which forced the temporary closing of the Marbletown Recreation Park in Stone Ridge recently, have had a more devastating impact on Woodstock's Big Deep. The popular swimming hole and picnic site has been ordered closed for the rest of the summer because of an unusually high bacteriological count.

On the recommendation of the Ulster County Health Department, the Woodstock Town Board decided Tuesday night to close Big Deep for the remainder of the season. "We could have closed the park ourselves," said John Power, director of environmental sanitation for the County Health Department, "but the town officials were very cooperative."

There are similarities—but there are marked differences, too—between problems that have lately affected the swimming holes in Marbletown and Woodstock.

The Marbletown Rec Park was closed last Thursday when the bacteriological count soared to 4,600, well above the pollution limit of 2,400. Standing water, lack of rain and heavy use contributed to the problem. Human sewage, as originally feared, was not a factor. The park was reopened Wednesday.

Sewage is believed to be a factor at Big Deep. Power pointed out that Woodstock does not have a municipal sewer system, so quantities of sewage invariably seep into the Sawkill Creek.

In the spring and early summer, said Power, the high water flow in the creek causes enough movement to effectively disperse whatever pollutants have contaminated the creek. In late summer, the low water table only compounds the problem.

Power said the water at Big Deep is now almost stagnant, and that the bacteriological count has now exceeded acceptable standards.

But he emphasized that the jury is still out on whether the high pollutant level has been caused by sewage, stagnant water, or a combination of the two. "We will continue testing the water at Big Deep," said Power, "to try to get a good indication of what exactly is causing the problem. But there's no question that Woodstock has a sewage problem."

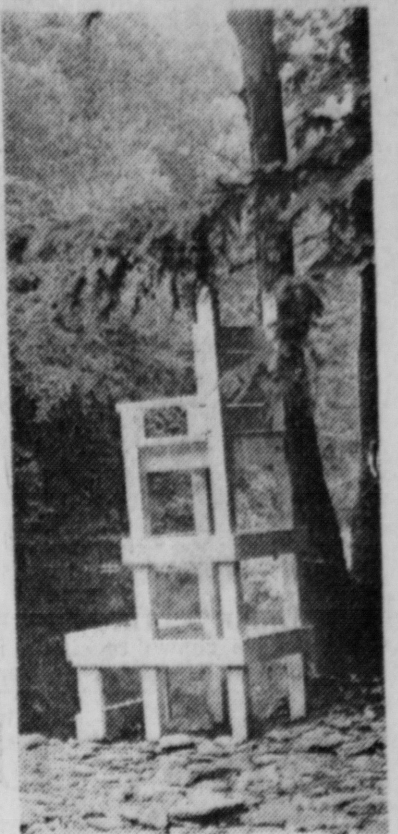

Woodstock Supervisor Verrier May told the Freeman that it isn't likely the situation can be rectified quickly, and for that reason the decision was made to close Big Deep for the rest of the summer. "We only had a few weeks of swimming left anyway," he said.

Marbletown residents, however, will be able to take advantage of those few weeks that are left. Supervisor Kenneth Smith said the Rec Park has been given "a clean bill of health" and he ordered it reopened to the public at 3 p.m. yesterday.

Apparently, Saturday's heavy rainfall and the absence of swimmers for a few days did the trick. The bacteriological count dropped from 4,600 last Thursday, to 2,200 on Monday and 750 on Wednesday. Smith said the town may take steps next year to limit the Rec Park to town residents only, in hopes that that may prevent a recurrence of the problem.

Woodstock, however, has fewer alternatives. The town is in the initial stages of establishing a sewer improvement district, but that isn't likely to solve the stagnant water conditions that plague Big Deep each summer. Whatever the outcome, the hundreds of Woodstock residents who loudly protested the temporary closing of Big Deep five years ago (nude swimmers and hippies were the "culprits" then), aren't about to abandon their favorite swimming hole during this, its most recent crisis.

Ford Likes the Job, Will Run in '76

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald R. Ford has been President less than two weeks, but he apparently likes it enough that he intends to run for a full term in 1976.

Using a breathtakingly low-key method, Ford orchestrated the announcement that he has changed his mind and intends to head the Republican ticket in the next presidential race after he serves the 2½ years remaining in former President Richard Nixon's term of office.

Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller told reporters Tuesday that Ford gave him the impression he had "every intention" of running for president on his own. On Wednesday, White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst, in a casual announcement that sent reporters scurrying to telephones, said Ford "is now of the opinion he will probably run in 1976."

Later Ford parried questions from reporters who wanted the direct word from him. He said

"There is no precise agreement," said terHorst, although it was highly likely the Rockefeller name would be an asset among Democrats and independents as well as most segments of the party, while Ford was expected to hold the allegiance of the conservatives who were disappointed in his selection.

The informal announcement reversed all of Ford's vice presidential statements that he did not have his eye on the White House.

Now his position has changed, as we are all aware, and naturally his view has changed," terHorst said. In the brief time that he has been President, Ford has exuded the air of a man completely comfortable. He has been putting in long hours and keeping a schedule unmatched by his recent predecessors. So far he also is adhering to a pledge of an "open door to the Oval Office."

On Wednesday, Ford signed the $25 billion education act which included tough antibusing provisions but also insured privacy for students. He drove to the Health, Education and Welfare Department to sign the bill.

Then he traveled on to the Capitol to hob-nob with his former congressional colleagues. In brief remarks on the Senate and House floors, Ford said he wanted to "officially inaugurate Pennsylvania Avenue as a two-way street." It runs between the White House and the Capitol.

It also was a day for Ford to mend fences. He met for 40 minutes with the black caucus and said he was considering some form of public service employment. He also told the black lawmakers he did not feel the defense budget was "sacrosanct" against cuts to dampen inflation.

Afterward, Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who opposed Ford's nomination as vice president, indicated the caucus was ready to forgive Ford for his conservative voting record in the House.

Ford, said Rangel, "has an excellent opportunity to be a President of all the people." The caucus also gave Ford recommendations on problems affecting blacks and other minorities in voting representation, housing, health, education and crime.

Ulster Tackles Crime Problem

By CARL GRAHAM

TOWN OF ULSTER

Approximately 150 persons in Chambers School Wednesday night heard a panel of legislators, judges, and law enforcement officers offer their ideas on clamping down on crime in an open meeting sponsored by the Ulster Business and Professional Association.

Robert Regan, UBPA president, said his group had formed a permanent committee composed of officers and directors of the association to continue working toward solutions to the crime problem. He called on other business groups in the county to join in the effort, and said his group would work closely with State Senators Edwyn E. Mason and Richard E. Schermerhorn on possible changes in legislation to hold down crime.

Schermerhorn, the first speaker introduced by Regan, said that legislators might be at fault in some cases because "we are too liberal — we give the courts an out." He suggested raising minimum sentences, called for mandatory sentences of at least 20 years for anyone using a deadly weapon in a robbery, and asked the public to support police, who, he said, were doing a good job.

"We have a sensitive government (in Albany) for a change, and you are going to see some changes in the law," he predicted.

Mason said he "shared the outrage of the American people who see criminals pampered and coddled while their victims bleed in the streets."

Mason blamed the late Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren and his court for many of the problems now being encountered.

"They completely altered the crime and subversion laws," Mason said. "I believe the crime wave sweeping the country today is connected to it."

"Liberal" legislators did not escape Mason's wrath either, especially Senator Jacob K.

Javits. Mason drew a round of applause when he called Javits "a fraud and a phony if there ever was one."

Michael Kavanagh, representing District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, didn't fare as well with the audience. After congratulating UBPA for calling the meeting, he defended the legal technicalities, plea bargaining, and preliminary hearings that several others had objected to as favoring criminals over law enforcement officers, saying that they were necessary safeguards to prevent the conviction of innocent persons.

"I know that plea bargaining is a dirty word in this community," he said. "But if we went to trial on every case there would be a breakdown of law and order." His call for more judges and more courts drew opposition from the audience.

Family Court Judge Bernard

A. Feeney Jr. described juvenile court procedures, supported the right of "good, respectable members of the community" to bear arms, and said he would like to see the District Attorney's office allowed to appear in Family Court on all matters (it is now restricted to child abuse cases.)

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman of the Hurley State Police station said the crime in Ulster County is rising, calling it "not epidemic but serious." He supported Sen.

Mason's criticism of the Supreme Court and said he was a strong advocate of the death penalty, calling it a strong deterrent to serious crime.

Sheriff William B. Martin also supported Sen. Mason's criticism of the Warren court, saying: "We have an enemy within, out to overthrow our government."

Regan said that UBPA would hold other meetings in the future.

Blockade Ending on Overlook Road

WOODSTOCK

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation has exercised its right of condemnation and eminent domain, and has announced that the road to Woodstock's Overlook Mountain will be open to the public within two weeks.

DEC Commissioner James L. Biggane told Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) on Wednesday that condemnation papers have been filed with the Ulster County Clerk's Office. It will take several weeks, said Bell, to remove the five-year-old blockade, prepare a parking area and determine rules and regulations for pedestrians who intend to use the path.

The two-mile dirt road extends from Mead Mountain Road, past the ruins of the Mountain House, to the forest rangers' fire tower at the top of the 3,000-foot-high peak. Thousands of hikers and campers used the trail every summer, until it was blocked by the mountain (the state and campers vandalized their already has a right-of-way, but they only for forest ranger vehicles (legally) blocked the trail, that must travel to the fire tower). He added that if an agreement isn't reached through negotiations, the state would condemn the property and let the Court of Claims decide an equitable price.

Biggane has apparently lived up to his promise. Bell said the County Clerk's office last Wednesday that negotiations with Be-No Lodge were commencing and that an agreement was reached with one of the principals, but that the others wouldn't agree to the state's offer. Bell said he suggested to the commissioner that the state begin condemnation proceedings, and the commissioner concurred.

After sentencing, Carter was remanded to the Ulster County Jail. He was ordered incarcerated in the Clinton Correctional Facility at Dan-

Carter was convicted of a killing Edwin Pascoe in August, 1973. According to trial testimony, Carter and a companion commandeered Pascoe's cab in Newburgh and ordered that he drive to an isolated spot in the Town of Marlborough. It was there that Pascoe's throat was slashed.

Assistant District Attorney Kavanagh told the court that Michael Kavanagh, who Carter showed no remorse and prosecuted the case for the people's compassion for the Pascoe family. "I can only conclude," said Kavanagh, "that he has nothing but contempt for the court and society as a whole."

Lippman, in asking for leniency for his client, cited Carter's honorable discharge from the Army, the fact that he had no previous convictions, that he voluntarily surrendered to police after the crime and cooperated with police during the investigation.

'Busy Day' for State Troopers

ELLENVILLE State Police, responding to a report of a burglary early today on Brigg's Highway near Ellenville, had to at first pass up an apparently drunken driver to catch the alleged burglar . . . but it wasn't long before they had both men in custody.

Police said a troop car was on its way to investigate a burglary report at the Echo Hotel on Brigg's Highway at about 3 a.m. when an auto, apparently being driven somewhat erratically, went by in the opposite direction. Further down the road, troopers halted the alleged burglar, who was driving from the scene. They charged the man, Donald Grasley, 38, of Ellenville, with second degree burglary.

Grasley, police said, had allegedly entered the apartment of Sam Wagner at the Hotel and taken between $200 and $300 in cash. He was seen leaving the hotel, police said.

A short time later, troopers arrested Daniel Preville, 23, of Kerhonkson in Ellenville on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

Police said Preville was the driver of the auto they had gone past earlier on Brigg's Highway.

After going past the troopers, Preville allegedly ran off Route 52, slammed into a guard rail, and then drove off, police said.

He was arraigned and then turned over to Ellenville Police for processing on a public intoxication charge.

Grasley, meanwhile, was arraigned before Wawarsing Town Justice Harold Sashin and was confined in jail in lieu of $500 bail.

Shirley Black Ghana Envoy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shirley Temple Black's career, which began on "The Good Ship Lollipop," now takes a diplomatic turn with her nomination by President Ford as ambassador to Ghana.

Conscious of protocol, Mrs. Black responded to Wednesday's White House announcement with the comment that she was "deeply honored." But she would say little more about it until the Senate nomination hearing.

"If confirmed by the Senate, I will move to Ghana with my family," she said by telephone from her Woodside, Calif., home. "We will maintain our residence in California and will return here after the assignment is over."

The family consists of husband Charles Black, 26, Mrs. Black's daughter by her first marriage to actor John Agar, Charles, Jr., 22, and Lori, 20, both university students. Black is president of Mardela International Co., a marine resources development firm.

"The company does a lot of work in the Middle East, Yugoslavia and Central America, and his associates are based in New Zealand, Hawaii, Missouri and here in Burlington near our home," Mrs. Black said. "Charlie travels a great deal, so he might as well be based in Ghana as here."

Now 46, Shirley Temple Black has been in the limelight for 40 years, achieving international fame as the most successful child star in Hollywood history.

She delighted Depression-era movie audiences and later generations of television viewers with her performances in such films as "The Little Colonel," "Curly Top," "Wee Willie Winkie" and "Bright Eyes," vehicle for the song "The Good Ship Lollipop."

She managed to bridge the awkward age in films like "Kiss and Tell," "The Bachelor and the Bobbysoxer" and "Fort Apache." Her last movie was "A Kiss for Corliss" in 1949. She returned to television in a fairy-tale series in the late 1950s.

Since then, Mrs. Black has elected to the boards of directors of the Del Monte Corp. and good works. She made a bid for Walt Disney Productions.

Congress in 1967 and lost in the Republican primary to Paul N. McCloskey Jr.

Would she run for office again?

"If I were 18 and sure of everything, I would give you a definite yes or no," she replied. "I don't have any plans. I prefer the world of international relations."

Mrs. Black was a U.S. delegate to the United Nations General Assembly in 1969 and in 1972 she served as vice chairman of the United States delegation to the U.N. Conference on Human Environment in Stockholm.

She was the first woman elected to the boards of directors of the Del Monte Corp. and good works. She made a bid for Walt Disney Productions.

Career Criminals Target of Saxbe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with rising crime rates, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says the Justice Department is launching a campaign against career criminals "who are terrorizing our communities."

The department plans a national effort to identify repeat offenders and insure that they are prosecuted more rapidly than other defendants, Saxbe said in an interview Wednesday.

In addition, the department has quietly summoned big-city police chiefs to a conference in Chicago next week to examine why crime rates are soaring and what should be done about it.

Saxbe said details of the new campaign against "major criminals, the repeat violators, the very small fraction of a percent of people who are terrorizing our communities" are expected to be explained in his speech to the conference Tuesday.

The department action comes against the background of FBI statistics showing that the number of crimes reported to police increased 15 per cent nationally in the first three months of this year, compared with the same period a year ago.

Taken with a 16 per cent increase reported for the last three months of 1973, the figure indicated the nation may be returning to a pattern of continually increasing crime rates.

On another topic, Saxbe said he considers it impractical to ask military deserters and draft-dodgers to join the armed forces as a condition for amnesty.

Arab Offer To Portugal Would Halt Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — Portugal has received an Arab offer of $400 million to refuse renewal of U.S. airbase rights in the Azores, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Arab representatives also were said to have offered to lift the oil embargo against Portugal.

The Arab aim, as U.S. intelligence men view it, is to deny the United States use of the key La's Airbase in the Azores for any future arms airlifts to Israel.

The treaty covering U.S. use of the Azores base ran out in February. Negotiations are under way on renewing those base rights for another five years.

Firefighter, Rescue Driver ...And She's a Grandmother

KINGSTON
She's petite, the mother of four, grandmother of three, and resides in Glenford with her husband and two youngest children. Does this add up to a drab, uneventful life?

Not for Cora North. She's all those things, she spends 13 or more hours a week as a volunteer worker in The Kingston Hospital emergency room and drives a rescue vehicle for the West Hurley Rescue Squad.

Mrs. North is full-fledged volunteer firefighter, in the West Hurley Fire Department, in which her husband, Clifford, is a captain.

"Emergency" may be just the name of a television show to most of her contemporaries, but to Mrs. North it's an opportunity to lend a helping hand.

To prepare herself for this service, she became a certified Red Cross First Aid Instructor and has completed the emergency medical technician course at the Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

Although her firefighting activities involve mostly helping as a dispatcher, she sees plenty of action in her roles as ambulance driver and hospital emergency room volunteer.

Cora spends every Monday and Wednesday at Kingston Hospital as a member of the auxiliary assigned to the emergency room, where her work earns her consistent high praise from Miss Karen Casey, RN, the head nurse. She will complete two years of service there this September.

As a trained medical technician, she is able to work with patients. In addition she also performs very effectively in one of the important roles of all volunteers in the emergency room, that of counseling members of the families of patients.

'Family' Joins United Way

KINGSTON
A 17th agency has been added to the United Way — Family of Woodstock Inc., a crisis intervention and referral agency which works with teenagers, senior citizens, drug abuse, employment and alcohol problems and lends a hand to "anyone with a crisis."

Announcement of the addition of the agency was made Tuesday morning at a press conference at the Gov. Clinton Hotel by William Sloan, president of United Way, who suggested that not only could United Way help Family but Family's membership will enable United Way to reach so many more people in the community that it does not now touch.

The United Way support of Family will enable the intervention organization to extend its services to other areas of Ulster County, particularly New Paltz and Ellenville and it will allow staff members to be retained.

According to United Way Executive Director Richard R. Fredenberg, Family operates 24 hours a day with dedicated volunteers manning the telephones. Family operates two phone lines, one in Woodstock and another as a county-wide toll free number. About 600 calls a week are received. The more than 50 volunteers received an 18-hour training course.

Thomas Colella, coordinator for Family and Andrea Price, a member of its board of directors, said Family expects to expand its volunteer network into the southern end of the county where as the result of advertising it was found, there is a great need for referral work. Family works closely with many agencies including Mental Health, and Social Services.

Its present sources of income include the Ulster County Drug Commission, the Mental Health Agency, businesses, churches and the Woodstock community.

Sloan said the amount of support from United Way will be determined by the budget committee.

According to Fredenberg, the present 16 agencies of the United Way have total budgets of slightly less than $2 million and this year requested $570,000 of United Way.

Although 95 to 98 per cent of the people in Ulster County are touched by some aspect of United Way, the fund raising organization has not been able to raise any more than $360,000 in any one year. Fredenberg said, urging that the money is needed to satisfy the many social needs of the community.

Last year, the Homemaker Service became the 16th member agency of United Way. Others include: Association for Retarded Children, Blood Bank, Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Family Service Center, Gateway Industries, Girl Scouts, Jewish Community Council, Mental Health Association, Red Cross, Salvation Army, USO, YMCA and YWCA.

United Way funding will begin in January 1975. Also in attendance at the press conference were Mark Kachigan, campaign chairman and James Thompson, public relations chairman.

Commission Plans Session

KINGSTON
The Kingston Bicentennial Commission will hold an open community meeting on Thursday, Sept. 19 to coordinate all city-wide Bicentennial programs and activities.

Businesses, civic groups, church organizations and individuals with activities planned or under consideration for the Bicentennial celebration are invited to attend and find out what others have scheduled, as well as to offer their own plans and suggestions.

Edward Levine, commission chairman, stressed that widespread participation in Bicentennial events is sought. He noted that Kingston has been designated a Bicentennial Community by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, a federal agency.

The Bicentennial celebration in New York State will extend through 1989, although most of the events will be concentrated in 1976 and 1977.

The Sept. 19 meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. A location for the meeting will be announced later.

Dutchess Board Considering OTB

POUGHKEEPSIE The Dutchess County Board of Representatives will consider tonight a resolution endorsing the creation of a regional Off-Track Betting Corporation for the Mid-Hudson Region.

The board two years ago approved the concept of a countywide off-track betting operation, but the resolution and the creation of a special committee are about as far as the action went.

With the interest evidenced by Westchester County, Putnam County, and the City of Yonkers, however, the organization of Mid-Hudson Corporation moves a step closer to reality.

The chairman of the Westchester Board of Legislators has reportedly asked Yonkers Mayor Angelo Martinelli to come up with facts and figures on a feasibility study for such a group effort, despite the fact that Westchester would probably stand to lose its five per cent admissions tax from Yonkers Raceway and the City of Yonkers' 30 per cent gate tax that would have to be surrendered after one year's operation of an off-track betting organization.

Yonkers has heretofore shown more interest than the county of Westchester, figuring it could make up the loss with OTB profits. All have closely eyed the New York City OTB system, which appears to be off and running.

The expected endorsement of the concept by Dutchess legislators tonight would seem to give added incentive to the organization of a Mid-Hudson Corporation.

Some other items of local interest the Dutchess Board is expected to address tonight include: a local law amending the administrative code of Dutchess County in relation to and removal of probationary deputy sheriffs and deputy sheriffs in that department, and a request that the sheriff coordinate initiation of "alternatives" at the Dutchess County Jail in line with recommendations of a study group.

State May Act Against Prof

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ Edward Brown, the multi-jobbed sociology professor, is supposed to journey to New Paltz by the end of this week, and formally resign from his position in the Sociology Department of the State University College at New Paltz.

If he does so, it will leave him with only one job, a condition he hasn't been in for more than a year.

Brown's job will be at California (Pa.) State College, where he is a tenured professor in the Social Sciences Department. From February until September of 1973, he had a full-time job teaching sociology at Bronx Community College. In that month, he took on a third full-time job, at New Paltz. He resigned his Bronx job in February of this year, but has not yet resigned the one at New Paltz.

Joel Swift, an assistant to New Paltz President Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., said he was assured Wednesday afternoon by a secretary to California State's vice president for academic affairs, John Watkins, that Brown was going to personally come to New Paltz by the end of this week to resign.

Swift has reported great difficulty in personally reaching Watkins, and no luck at all in getting in contact with Brown.

Swift said that Brown, whether or not he shows up at New Paltz this week, is getting a letter telling him that if he doesn't resign, the State University of New York will "take action" against him. The action is the filing of charges about 12:30 a.m. when Wolfel shot and killed a dog belonging

Tuesday the University was sity, working on his doctorate. Brown was teaching at preparing to do. Watkins has explained to the Associated Press that the administration at California State knew Brown was commuting to New York a lot from the Pennsylvania college, located about 60 miles from Pittsburgh, but they thought he was just finishing up a degree. While he was holding down his jobs, Brown was also reportedly enrolled at New York Univer-

California State, without pay, for the second half of the Spring semester when his multiple employment became known. When informed late last month that Brown was still on the payroll at New Paltz, Watkins said he was "startled," having been under the impression that Brown had resigned all his Pa. to New Paltz, it should write its final chapter.

Brown was suspended from California State this summer. If Brown had managed to hold three jobs for a whole year, his salary has been unofficially estimated in the $50,000 range. Brown's story has attracted the attention of national media. If he makes the long trip he knows so well, from California, to New Paltz, it should write its final chapter.

'Marathon' in Rosendale

ROSENDALE to Robert Capone of 12 South Street. The shot was allegedly

The former Village of Rosendale dog warden, John E. Wolfel of 17 South Street, where several children were sleeping outside on the property of John Walsh of 19 South Street, Gordon said.

When police arrived an argument was allegedly underway between Wolfel and several neighbors, and, on Wolfel's complaint three of them were arrested. Those charged on Wolfel's complaint were John Walsh and Mrs. Mary McNamara of 19 James Street, both for harassment, and Capone, for third degree assault. Wolfel alleged that Capone struck and kicked him, police said.

Wolfel, on the complaint of at least 15 persons according to police, was charged with reckless endangerment as a Class D felony. Wolfel's shotgun, allegedly used to kill the dog, was seized by police.

Wolfel, Walsh, Capone and Mrs. McNamara accompanied by a large crowd, were all taken before Town Justice

Albert Morelli. All four were released in their own recognizance. Wolfel is slated to reappear before Justice Morelli on Friday. Walsh, Capone and Mrs. McNamara are to appear before Village Justice Wilfred Doolittle Sept.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 22, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government has found grossly inadequate security at eight major foreign airports from which terrorists may fly for hijacking and bombing attacks in America.

The eight "most vulnerable" airports were turned up by a secret Federal Aviation Administration survey which was obtained by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.

As sponsor of a new anti-hijacking law, Murphy pointed out the results to Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar with a request that he order suspension of U.S. air traffic to the eight countries unless they tighten security.

The U.S. government sleuths, working undercover, named the eight airports as

Beirut, New Delhi, Bangkok, Brussels, Rome, Buenos Aires, Copenhagen and London. Here are the highlights of the FAA findings:

— Beirut: "Arab terrorists continue to use Lebanon as a haven for murderers, hijackers and terrorists . . . The Lebanese government affords them freedom of movement (and) diplomatic immunity . . . There is no appreciation by security personnel at the airport of the dimensions of the security threat posed by potential terrorists . . ."

— London (Heathrow): "The English are very bullheaded and have refused to institute proper security measures." The investigators found unlocked security doors, unarmed guards and inadequate airport fencing.

— New Delhi: "Very poor screening. No officers around parked aircraft . . . The slow pace of the Indian police (means) a resolution of these problems will not take place for some time."

— Bangkok: "Security is poor to non-existent . . . There are unscreened passengers in the ramp areas when . . . flights are boarding." The FAA praises Pan Am and TWA for doing well under these incredible conditions.

— Brussels: "Security is very poor and spotty. This is dangerous in view of the fact that Brussels airport has been the focal point of terrorist movement of weapons . . . Weapons, bombs, etc., could easily be transferred to passengers."

— Rome: "After the Dec. 17, 1973, commando-style fire bombing of a Pan Am flight in which 32 persons were killed, the Rome airport security improvement was only temporary. (There are) very poor search procedures . . . metal detectors were obviously inoperative . . ."

— Buenos Aires: "Government security people do search, but they only search when they feel like it . . . One plane returned to the airport with engine trouble and the passengers (roamed) at will and re-embarked without any search."

— Copenhagen: "Security is almost non-existent. It is the most lax in the world . . . Guards at the access points pass anyone with any type of I.D. . . . SAS should be forced to abide by a security program or give up its flights to the U.S."

The FAA survey was conducted during June, July and early this month. Airports showing the most improvement were in Hong Kong and West Germany. Overall, the report said, "the greatest danger lies in Mideast air terminals," except for Israel where security is good.

Footnote: The Murphy anti-hijacking act provides that if foreign planes land at U.S. airports, their own airports must, at a minimum, meet U.S. standards. Once warned, the foreign violator must comply or lose permission to land its planes in the United States.

JUNKETING SEASON: The House Science Committee will soon usher in the fall junket season with a gala tour to Europe, where they can quaff English ales and cheer the death of Spanish bulls, all in the name of science.

The congressmen, their pockets loaded with taxpayers' money, will embark for London, Madrid and Amsterdam in a few days. An internal travel memo urges them to bring their wives, but discreetly suggests the spouses' expenses be paid by the congressmen.

To make sure the most luxurious military aircraft is available, the science committee is tying in with a junket by the House Armed Services Committee, which oversees the Air Force. The cover for the trip is the Farnborough International Air Show outside London.

In the memo, stamped in red "Important Committee Business," chief clerk Leon Drozd says the congressmen will spend their four days in London at the plush Churchill Hotel.

During the most of their London visit, the members will be entertained by Lockheed, United Aircraft, McDonnell Douglas and other aircraft firms whose government contracts often come under committee jurisdiction.

From London, they will fly to Madrid, purportedly so they can visit a National Space and Aeronautics Administration tracking station 40 miles from the city. Ample time has been left free, however, for buffaloes and for shopping at Madrid's luxury shops.

Five members have already signed up for the trip. One is inveterate junketer Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., a lame duck who will not even be back in January. Four staffers also hope to tag along.

Footnote: When our associate Bob Owens confronted him with the memo, Drozd gasped: "How do you guys get that stuff?" He then quickly added that the memo was just some thoughts he had "put down on paper . . . We haven't committed ourselves to anything."

Anti-Inflation Step

Approval of key committees in House and Senate assures the President Ford will get the cost of living task force he requested. Whether this body — to be known as the Council on Wage and Price Stability—will do much to curb inflation is another matter. It ought to be given the chance, but monitoring inflation must be recognized as only a modest step toward taming the monster.

It is regrettable that the Senate Banking Committee did not approve Sen. Adlai Stevenson's amendment giving the agency a few teeth. He had proposed allowing it to impose up to a 90-day delay on what it considered excessive price or wage increases. This is a long ways from being control authority, but it would at least have afforded time for presidential "jaw-boning" and other efforts to reduce the proposed increase.

Even without the amendment, however, the task force legislation should be of some help. The agency will not only be charged with gathering wage and price data; it also will be authorized to hold public hearings. Such hearings, by focusing publicity on inflationary problems, will alert Congress and the public to forces which contribute to increases in the cost of living.

The test will be whether this in turn leads to corrective action. The function of the Council on Wage and Price Stability will be diagnostic. Diagnosis must be followed up with curative measures.

Discrimination in Congress

When a senior Department of Justice official describes certain federal hiring practices as "the most incredible, grossest example of overt discrimination" he has ever encountered, that sounds bad. The fact that these practices have occurred in the offices of members of Congress makes it all the worse.

According to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, one senator and several House members have specified racial or religious restrictions in hiring secretaries and other office personnel. Notations such as "white only" or "no minorities" are found on some job order forms.

Such practices run directly counter to anti-discrimination policies decreed by Congress. It is intolerable that members of that body should flaunt these policies in filling positions in their own offices.

Memoriam to Smokey

Smokey the Bear has been recognized nationally as a symbol of the National Forest Service's fire-prevention campaign.

But Smokey is more than a symbol. He is an actual bear — a 24-year-old living specimen confined to the National Zoo at Washington, D.C.

Smokey was rescued as a cub from a New Mexico forest fire, and from that came the inspiration that made his symbolic likeness a favorite in the campaign to prevent carelessness in the wilderness.

The U.S. House of Representatives wants to recognize the real Smokey's contribution by seeing that he has a proper funeral and a memorial when he dies.

Accordingly a resolution for a bronze statue has been passed in the House and sent to the Senate. It is only fitting that such national recognition be given to this animal.

According to the Forest Service, the fire-prevention campaign based on Smokey's symbolic appeal has saved more than $16 billion in timber since the publicity campaign began.

For that, the real Smokey deserves a fitting memorial.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Experiencing Professor John Kenneth Galbraith is always a personal pleasure, though one must be on one's guard, and the republic is wise to steel itself to resist his seductive nostrums. Most recently I met with him to discuss on the Today Show the disappearance of Richard Nixon. He took huge delight in a telephone conversation the day before, telling me how much he had enjoyed a column I wrote about deteriorating airline service.

Mr. Galbraith's sarcasm is never obscure, and his point was that while Nixon was resigning, I was writing about airline food, and so would he be doing if he had been so retarded as to have backed Nixon in other days. I expected he would bring up the subject on television, and am somewhat disappointed he did not, as I was prepared to tell him that there are those of us who, when relaxing, write about the airlines, while others write economic textbooks. But the subject did not arise, and we sat for a minute or two before going on in the little ante-chamber listening to a lady theologian. I do not doubt that during those two minutes Professor Galbraith doubled his knowledge of theology.

And then it began. Strangely, the subject of Mr. Nixon's perjuries did not wholly occupy Mr. Galbraith, a man of personal generosity not always transparent through his polemics. His generosity is most pronounced, come to think of it, when dispensing other people's money (he calls it public money) hither and yon, to improve on the works of nature, and nature's God. And in a matter of moments he was agreeing with Today's attractive new host Mr. Jim Hartz who was agreeing with President Gerald Ford that the country's most urgent problem is inflation. The formulation usually has it: "The Number One Problem."

Professor Galbraith then said that everybody knows what it is that should be done about inflation. The only problem, he said, is to develop the Will. As a matter of fact, this is not correct. Most economists will agree that certain measures would be deflationary in their impact, but by no means could one get most economists to agree on the stresses that are properly put on one as against another anti-inflation measure.

On the Right

Galbraith and Inflation

Here, highly compressed, would be Mr. Galbraith's recommendations: 1) Raise taxes immediately, particularly on persons earning $20,000 or more per year, and on corporations. 2) Use the money on public works projects. 3) Impose wage and price controls on critical industries. 4) Stand by to target a lot of help to groups that are afflicted in the course of shaking off the inflationary fat, provided these groups aren't held together by corporations. For instance, be prepared to help out Lockheed employees, but not Lockheed. If you want to keep Lockheed alive, nationalize it.

This is something one might call classical-1930's liberal. I fear it is very full of holes. Obviously of a political and social character; but even of an economic character; and, of course there isn't time, ever, to get deeply into the subject. It is perhaps easiest to observe that there are many countries in the world suffering from an inflation even though dominated by one man, or a group of men. Lenin used to say that revolution plus electricity would bring Communism. Will plus expertise won't bring deflation. Mr. Nixon, during his years in office, spent 70 billion dollars more than he raised in taxes. The difference between a dollar spent by Washington and a dollar spent by the taxpayer isn't the difference between one more maple tree at Yellowstone Park and one less empty beer can at the roadside, as Mr. Galbraith likes to leave us thinking. It is the difference between a dollar spent with very clear notions of individual preference.

These last have a more resonant effect: in causing homes to be built, or skyscrapers, or hospitals — or schools. The public dollar, beloved of the socialists, is both difficult to target (60 million Americans can now qualify for food stamps), and difficult to restrain (a conservative President overspends by 70 billion).

Inflation is indeed the number one domestic problem, and indeed it is true the marshaling the Will is required to contain it. But the will to do what? One fears that Professor Galbraith and other centralizers look on the current mess, which resulted from an overindulgence in their own nostrums, as an ideal opportunity to proceed with their vision of a socialized economy.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

The House of Pork Bellies

CHICAGO — The only time you see them is when the news is bad, and then it's a 15-second film clip on TV with the commodities brokers in their little smocks screaming and shouting and waving their hands, while the voice-over informs you that it means the price of beef is going up. The unavoidable impression is that of a maddened, greedy mob.

The place where this happens is the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, a black box of glass and steel built on top of Union Station, which some of its 500 members derisively but affectionately call, "The House that Pork Bellies Built." The trade in pork bellies or uncut bacon is what attracted the money and interest here in the early part of the '60s; but later this summer and fall, if the drought persists, it will be what's going on in the live cattle pit that men in Washington and supermarket shoppers in Los Angeles will be paying attention.

If the corn crop is badly damaged — something no one can be sure of for a few weeks yet — the ranchers, cattle corporations and feed lot operators, whose herds have reached historically large sizes, will have to choose whether to pay bankrupting prices for feed or put their cattle on the market in such numbers that the price tumbles. The guessers here is that they will be forced to sell, thereby first depressing the price but subsequently driving it way up because the herds will be so diminished by the slaughter of breeding stock.

Either way the pernicious chain of consequences in an inflation-sickened economy will draw demands that the Mercantile Exchange be controlled and regulated, for it is here that men do indeed speculate on the price of food.

"Eight months ago, when I got a job here for $90 a week, I was just an art student. Now I am making more money than I ever thought I would," says an enthusiastic junior employee of one of the firms trading on the Exchange. In that he echoes what his seniors say: "This is the last bastion of the free market in America."

It is just that fact which makes institutions like the exchange suspect. The men are the visible middlemen, the traders who buy and sell, not cattle or pork bellies, but contracts to buy and sell cattle and pork bellies for a specific price at a specific future date. If they guess wrong about what meat will be selling for in December they lose money. If they guess right they make it.

Most people guess wrong. Leo Malamed, a former Exchange chairman, says his figures show 70 per cent of those who invest lose money. "We're here to take risks," he explains, "but unlike Las Vegas we have a social function."

When the next great upward lunge of food prices hits us, that social function may be overlooked. Nevertheless, by being able to sell wheat not-yet-grown and cattle not-yet-raised, farmers are able to flatten out the chancy boom or bust element in their business, so that they can plan ahead, borrow money safely and conduct their operations at a steadier tempo. By the same token, users like bakers, brewers, meat packers and those in dozens of other industries are able to escape the more violent fluctuations in the price of their supplies.

Beyond that, places like the Exchange establish a market: that is they can find a price that at least crudely reflects supply and demand. No small service when you consider the afflictions brought on us by monopolistic industries like steel, oil, auto and electricity, which can charge what they want and, if we don't like it, we can walk around with the lights out.

For this we pay a price, which is either reasonable or unconscionable depending upon how valuable you think having this kind of market mechanism may be, and whether or not you believe it really is free and unrigged. The men who stand and shout on the Exchange's rubberized, foot-saving floor are intoxicated by it. "If I had to give up sex or trading, I'd give up sex," is how one of them puts it. And it is truly amazing to see businessmen, not apprehensively obsessed but happily consumed by what they are doing.

When dog food goes up to a dollar-fifty-a-can and people food is thrice that, when crops come short and we get export controls — and a clamor for something to be done, the Exchange may be in danger of being crippled or done away with. Conceivable, somebody will think up something better with which to replace it, but that will still mean there will be one less place in this fair country of ours where old men will tell young ones they can come with $2,500 and make a million.

P. BARBACCIA

Who would have believed last week that Nelson A. Rockefeller would be the vice president of the United States? This is our own Nelson Rockefeller who for the last 15 years, or what must have been an eternity to his detractors, steered the ship of New York State through the shoals of parlous times, some contrived and some not. To say Rockefeller was a controversial governor is to use the word in its most diluted sense. Hardly anyone would admit voting for him, yet he managed to defeat his Democratic opponents (if one considers such as Morgenthau and Goldberg in that category) by overwhelming pluralities that seemingly insured the Empire State becoming the Rock's personal fiefdom.

In his stewardship at Albany, Rockefeller managed to infuriate the conservatives with what they called his spend-thrift ways, and also alienate the liberals with his latter-day hard drug policy and his actions at Attica. No one seemed to love the man at the Governor's mansion except the majority of voters who invariably returned him to office.

But that is not to say that eyes of the Rock were never cast afar. Mostly they seemed instinctively to shift in the direction of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, and the man could never be faulted for not trying, even after the convention fiasco of 1964 when he was booted off the platform by Goldwater adherents, or in 1968 when he made his run too late against Richard Nixon.

When he did decide to call it quits in Albany, he did so once more in his role as the astute politician, undoubtedly using his Commission for Critical Choices as a ploy and springboard that would still maintain his image in the public eye.

Rocky may have been looking toward 1976, but 1974 came up with a few surprises that even a Republican could not foresee. A president was discredited and his successor, gaining early momentum and popularity, appeared to have a lock on the forthcoming presidential nomination two years hence.

But the resources of Nelson Rockefeller are monumental. If one cannot enter the White House by the front door—well, there's always the back way. Who knows what next might be in the minds of the gods? or half a loaf is better than none.

Meanwhile, the wags are having a field day with atrocious Rockefeller jokes such as: "God, now we'll have an eight per cent national sales tax"; or "Is it true he plans to move the Taj Mahal (state office complex) from Albany to Washington at government expense?"

Knowing the former governor's track record any of them could come about but there is much more he can bring to Washington. He can bring his political savvy and knowhow plus boundless energy that renders the man formidable. He can bring dedication to government that quickly separates the wheat from the chaff so that lunkhead underlings cluttering up the national scene will be held to a minimum.

He can provide the Ford administration with a drive and flair that will act as a healthy counterbalance to the President's low key midwestern approach. It may be just what this country needs right now.

Hopefully, President Ford will not relegate his new vice president to a purely ceremonial role. As a functioning, pragmatic politician our former governor is without parallel, not adverse to subtle arm-twisting and pressure politics to get needed programs moving.

There definitely is a role for Nelson Rockefeller in Washington, but perhaps not the role he had envisioned for himself.

Pen Pal Wanted

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to know if you could help me obtain pen pal addresses, possibly from Denmark, France, Spain or China. My name is Beth Cornell and I'm 13 years old.

My interests are horseback riding, swimming, and making friends with people from other countries and states.

My hobbies are instrumental music, gymnastics, writing, most sports, singing and collecting odd things.

I'm five feet tall with shoulder length hair and brown eyes. I have two brothers (age 5 and 29). My pets are three dogs, one cat, two aquariums and a bird. I would be obliged to any help you might be able to give me.

Yours very truly,
BETH CORNELL

Band Concerts

Editor, The Freeman:

In my search for property on which to live in the Kingston area, it has been my good fortune to be in your region almost every day during the past month. And, on Wednesdays, I have made a special effort to remain in Kingston long enough to attend your outstanding band concerts in Academy Green Park.

Your mayor and those responsible for planning these fine concerts are to be highly complimented for their excellent judgment in giving all who wish to attend several hours of fine entertainment each week. The band (which is tops) and the relaxed (and sometimes uninhibited!) mood of the audience all add up to a memorable evening of complete enjoyment. There seems to be a mutual admiration society between band members and audience!

I sincerely hope you will continue this program for many years to come. This series of concerts, and the many other fine opportunities you give your people to be constructively and enjoyably occupied, make me look forward to my forthcoming residency in your area all the more. For this, many thanks.

Sincerely,
ALLEN J. KRONMAN

deeply aware of the fact that he has attained office through the 25th Amendment, not by the votes of the people.

In this historic time would it not be appropriate for each of us to give him our votes by mail? We might write the President to this effect: (this is my letter, you can use your own ideas):

"Dear Mr. President: You have my vote, my support and my prayers. Be President of all our people."

Open Letter

We strongly oppose such a proposal on the grounds that the passing through costs to consumers automatically is similar to the fuel adjustment clause which gives the utilities a blanket privilege with no safeguards of the public good.

There will be no urgency on the part of the utilities to cut their costs and trim their budgets as the consumers have been forced to do.

It is obvious that the Federal Energy Office is calling a conference on Aug. 13th concerning the need of utilities for "immediate and adequate rate relief" on the grounds that most utilities are receiving inadequate rates now. Strangely enough, even though this conference will affect consumers already hard hit by an unprecedented inflationary spiral, no consumer representatives have been invited to attend.

At the present time, consumer organizations all over the country are trying to make state Public Service Commissions or other state regulatory bodies more aware of the need to hold the line on utility rates as a means of stemming the growing inflation. It is obvious that a Federal meeting at this time without consumer representatives would undercut our efforts.

One of the proposals to be discussed will permit utilities to increase rates automatically when there are higher operating

Birthright

Editor, The Freeman:

Those of us in the pro-life movement do not recognize the "right" of a woman to kill her baby. We need positive answers to the problems that beset us: abortion is a negative and brutal cop out.

Those who favor abortion constantly stress that a woman should have the freedom to choose, but they fail to give her any choice. When alternatives to abortion come up they become very defensive and dismiss them out of hand.

If we can, through governmental and private agencies, tell a woman of her "right" to have an abortion, why are we afraid to use these same agencies to tell a woman that she also has a right not to have an abortion. Many women have abortions because they see no alternative; the organization Birthright offers an alternative, but is not being used effectively. We have many abortion referral services; how many of these organizations also tell the woman about Birthright? Why do they yell "freedom of choice" so loudly and so often and then offer only one thing to choose — abortion. What are they afraid of?

If you want your baby to live, contact Birthright for free confidential counseling, at 331-1669.

Sincerely,
JAMES R. WHELAN

TORONTO (UPI) — Albert Shaker, president of the New York's United Teachers Federation, Wednesday was over the top in the election of the American Federation of Teachers.

Unofficial results, based on tallies by the chief delegates of the various state delegations, gave Shaker 258,911 votes compared to 38,987 for former president David Selden and 1,067 for David Rosoff.

Thirty members of Shaker's Progressive Conservative caucus were also elected to form the executive council.

Full Check Urged On Rocky, Attica

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — A group of attorneys representing persons indicted in the 1971 Attica prison riot Tuesday urged a "full examination" of former New York Governor

Nelson Rockefeller's role in what they called "the Attica massacre."

The Attica Brothers Legal Defense, in telegrams to Rep. Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said they were "appalled by the nomination of Rockefeller to become vice president."

The telegram charged that Rockefeller acted with a "lack of judgement and disregard for human well-being" when he ordered the police assault which ended the four-day revolt at the Attica Correctional Facility.

The revolt, the nation's bloodiest prison riot, resulted in the death of 43 persons.

"This military action," the telegram continued, "against the citizens of this state vividly characterized the lawless and repressive nature of Rockefeller's administration."

"We urge your committee to undertake a full examination of Rockefeller's personal role in the Attica massacre and its legal and political aftermath, before recommending he now accede to the vice presidency," the telegram said.

The group, which is representing 62 former and present Attica inmates charged in connection with the riot, also volunteered to "cooperate fully in providing documentary and testimonial evidence" regarding the matter.

22,000 View Dutchess Fair

RHINEBECK An estimated 22,000 persons viewed the Dutchess County Fair Wednesday, bringing the two-day total to 54,000 and sustaining hopes that this year's fair will break last year's six-day attendance mark of 185,000.

Tuesday's attendance was 32,432. Officials pointed out that the second day of the fair traditionally attracts a smaller crowd. But with good weather, attendance totals should again top the 30,000 mark on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The fair is open every day from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., through Sunday. Today's featured attraction is the Joie Chitwood Auto Thrill Show, which will begin at 8 p.m. at the Grandstand.

Jail Inmate Is Charged

KINGSTON Ulster County Sheriff's Deputies have charged Randy P. Coffey, 17, of Connelly, an inmate at the Ulster County Jail, with fourth degree criminal mischief in connection with an Aug. 19 incident at the jail.

Deputies said Coffey, who is already facing charges of robbery, burglary, arson and sodomy, allegedly broke a sink at the jail at about 1:15 a.m. Aug. 19 in a second floor cellblock.

David Bernstein Dies, Editor of Broome Paper

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (UPI) — David Bernstein, a lifelong veteran of the newspaper business, died Wednesday at Binghamton General Hospital. Editor of the Binghamton Sun-Bulletin, he was 59.

Bernstein had been hospitalized since Aug. 11 in serious condition and had suffered a heart attack while still hospitalized Aug. 14. He was named editor and publisher of the Binghamton Sun in 1960 after leaving the Middletown Record and later merged the Sun with the Endicott Daily Bulletin to create the Sun-Bulletin.

Bernstein continued as the paper's editor after it was purchased by the Gannett Co., Inc. in 1971.

Gov. Malcolm Wilson, in a statement issued by his office, called Bernstein "an important force in the life of his community and indeed throughout the state."

"A delightfully warm human being, he represented the best qualities of those in his demanding profession," Wilson said.

Local Death Record

Paul Villiard — Paul Villiard Sr., 64, noted author and photographer died Sunday, Aug. 19, at his residence in Saxton. He was born Jan. 16, 1910 in Spokane, Wash., and traveled extensively to gather information for many magazine articles and more than 20 books on birds, reptiles, minerals, pets and crafts. Mr. Villiard was a hobbyist and used his interest for topics. Surviving are his wife, Gertrude and three sons, Paul Jr., Fred and William; and a sister Carol Phillips.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, extending its severe losses of the past two weeks.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, and declines moved out to a 5-1/2 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said investors were simply unable to find any encouraging news to lift the market out of its tailspin.

They added that uneasiness was growing over whether banks' prime lending rate, which has held steady at a record 12 per cent for several weeks, might soon begin climbing again.

PA System For Subways

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Transit Authority said it expected to equip the first car of all IRT subway trains with a public address system by today so that motormen could give instructions to passengers in the event of an emergency.

The action was a direct result of a Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) inquiry into a smoke fire that stalled three trains in a tunnel under the East River Tuesday, trapping 1,400 riders for nearly two hours. At least 193 persons had to be treated for smoke inhalation.

At a news conference Wednesday, MTA Chairman David L. Yunich, who issued the order, said two of the trains did not have loudspeakers. Due to the "lack of communications," he said, confused passengers jumped from trains onto the tracks and forced the Transit Authority to shut off power.

Yunich also said the two hours it took to evacuate all passengers was far more than the maximum of 45 minutes set under MTA standards. He said the "gap" would be investigated.

He also said the MTA Board of Inquiry would seek to learn why railroad ties were discarded — "contrary to all kinds of procedures" — in a wall niche where the fire broke out. The Board, Yunich said, would interview 50 to 60 witnesses and "we will find all of the facts as soon as possible."

Under the order, modern IRT cars equipped with speaker systems must be used as motormen's cars on all trains so a motorman can give instructions to passengers in the event of an emergency. Yunich said that the 300 oldest IRT cars — out of a total 2,500 — had no public address system.

Second Straight Decline For Gross National Product

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gross National Product dropped by 0.8 per cent during the second quarter of the year, the Commerce Department said today. It was the second straight quarterly decline — the theoretical definition of a recession.

The 0.8 per cent figure was a slight improvement over the preliminary figures for April to June issued by the department last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop in the GNP.

On the other hand, the department said inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or noninflationary growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists have insisted that the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

With the exception of the 12.3 per cent rate of price increases in the first quarter, the April-June inflation rate was the biggest three-month rise since the first quarter of 1951.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent said the modest softening was "an improvement" over the first quarter but "nevertheless validates the essentiality of President Ford's battle to cut the inflation rate."

Both the growth and inflation figures were part of the department's quarterly report on GNP, which measures the total value of goods and services produced in this country in a given period. It is the most comprehensive report on the health of the economy.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed rate schedule has been filed with the Public Service Commission to become effective on September 15, 1974.

Introduction of the following:

Dial PBX Series 500 Types 40, 42, 50, 52, 60 and 62 Services.

Types 40 and 42 Service

This service is a console equipped PBX system using MA 120 type PBX equipment. The systems have a maximum capacity of 1 attendant console with a built-in station busy lamp field, 120 line equipments and 20 trunk equipments. A service is designated "Type 40" when the subscriber elects to pay an installation charge based on the estimated cost for the individual job and "Type 42" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for Type 42 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 40 service.

Types 50 and 52 Service

This service is a PBX system which may be provided using 812 type PBX equipment with or without an attendant console. The systems have a maximum capacity of 14 switched loop attendant consoles, 2000 line equipments and 600 trunk equipments. A service is designated "Type 50" when the subscriber elects to pay an installation charge based on the estimated cost for the individual job and "Type 52" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for Type 52 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 50 service.

Types 60 and 62 Service

This service provides a console equipped Direct Inward Dialing PBX system using MA 120 PBX equipment. The service has a maximum capacity of 2 attendant consoles, 400 line ports, 20 Direct Inward Dialing trunks and 24 Direct Outward Dialing trunks. A service is designated "Type 60" when the subscriber elects to pay an installation charge based on the estimated cost for the individual job and "Type 62" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for the Type 62 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 60 service.

Optional Features for Dial PBX Series 500 Types 20 and 22 Service and Provision for Satellite Operation

These optional features are Direct Station Selection, Camp-on and Station Dial Features. Station Dial Features include add-on conference, consultation hold, station dial transfer and trunk answer from any station.

Direct Inward Dialing Service

This service allows an incoming exchange call to be dialed directly by a calling party to a station associated with a switching system on the subscriber's premises. The switching systems are either provided by the Telephone Company (Dial PBX Series 500 Types 50, 52, 60 and 62 services) or by the subscriber. The facilities for the service are located in the central office. The service is furnished subject to the availability of facilities.

Identified Outward Dialing Service

This service identifies outgoing toll calls by recording the calling station number. The service is provided either by facilities that will automatically record the calling station number or by Telephone Company operators who record the calling station number. This service is available only to subscribers to Direct Inward Dialing service, subject to the availability of facilities. When Direct Inward Dialing and Identified Outward Dialing services are associated with subscriber-provided switching systems, the subscriber's equipment must be subject to the tariff regulations covering subscriber-provided communications systems.

Regulations to permit changing from Dial Communications Service to Dial PBX Series 500 Types 22 or 42 Service

Subscribers to Dial Communications Service (DCS) have the option to change from a console equipped DCS rate to Dial PBX Series 500 Types 22 or 42 Service rates. The subscriber has 12 months from the effective date of the tariff to decide if changing to Series 500 Type 22 or 42 service rates would be beneficial to him. The subscriber may decide to make the change anytime during this 12 month period and the monthly rates for the Types 22 or 42 service would be applied as of the tariff effective date.

Rates and Charges

The rates and charges for the services which are being introduced were set forth in detail in a notice which was published in this paper on August 15. They are not repeated here, because the number of rates and charges involved resulted in an extremely lengthy and complex notice which is expensive to publish. The rates and charges are set forth in tariffs which are available for inspection at any office of the Telephone Company where business is transacted in person. The location of these offices can be found in the first pages of telephone directories. Tariffs are also available at the offices of the Public Service Commission.

Ford's Low-Key Jawboning Working

WASHINGTON (AP) — A deft use of persuasion, or jawboning, stands so far as President Ford's ultimate weapon in keeping the lid on inflationary wage and price hikes.

And in its first use of the technique, the Ford White House has revealed its brand of jawboning is low-key and devoid of threats.

"I used to think jawboning meant just using threats or inducements to make people do what you think they should do," said Kenneth Rush, the White House counselor who was instrumental in getting General Motors to trim by $54 the average increase of about $500 per car it had proposed for 1975 models.

Both White House and General Motors officials agree that in the latest case, the administration engaged in no threats and there was no bargaining.

The jawboning opened Aug. 8, the day before GM announced its price hike. GM officials Oscar A. Lundin and Henry W. Welch flew from Detroit to Washington to meet with Rush and Herbert Stein, outgoing chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. The GM officials presented data they felt supported their position.

"I didn't bargain or try to exact promises or anything like that. We tried to let them hear all the points of view," Rush said.

We were very disappointed in this price increase. We thought it was too much," GM announced its price increase from Detroit the next day, Friday Aug. 9. That was the day that President Richard M. Nixon's resignation became effective.

President Ford moved into office, declared inflation to be his No. 1 problem and broke silence on GM the next Monday.

"I was very disappointed, and I hope the General Motors action will not be viewed as a signal by other auto companies or other industries," said Ford in a statement read by the White House press secretary.

That was the only communication GM would receive from the White House after the Rush-Stein meeting.

But, as GM Chairman, Richard C. Gerstenberg explained in a statement, the fact that the nation had a new President and that Ford had tapped inflation as the No. 1 problem made an impression on GM brass.

So on Tuesday Lundin and Welch came back to the White House and told Rush they would trim their increase by $54.

The public announcement came Wednesday and was commended by the White House at the same time the administration said it would like to see a further cutback.

The correct prices of turkey breasts and rock cornish hens advertised by Schecter's Market in Wednesday's Daily Freeman should have read: turkey breasts, 79 cents a pound and rock cornish hens, 69 cents a pound. Schecter's is located at 84-86 North Front Street, Kingston.

Candidate Schechter . . . 'The Game's on My Turf Now'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — "The game is on my turf now," an increasingly confident William Schechter said Tuesday as he discussed his chances in the four-way primary for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 27th District.

Nominated here by the Ulster County Democrats, Schechter, who thinks of himself as "the Catskill candidate," feels certain he can capture the Ulster, Delaware and Sullivan County vote and "a patchwork" of votes in Broome, Tompkins and Tioga counties — enough, perhaps, to put him in the winners column.

Opposing him are Conservative Democrat Robert Kropp, thought by many to have an edge in the race, Matthew McHugh and Michael Sloan, whose political philosophies are more akin to Schechter's.

Liberal ideologies. McHugh, of Ithaca in Tompkins County, has the Liberal nomination. Sloan and Kropp are from Binghamton in Broome County. Schechter feels that his chances are good for any number of reasons. He suggests that Kropp knows Tompkins and Ulster counties have about the same number of Democratic votes in the 27th District and therefore feels that he will sweep up the nomination "under a pathetic circumstances."

(Broome County has roughly one-half of the Democratic votes.)

Pointing to a newspaper poll taken at the end of June when Schechter was only in the race a few weeks compared to the other contenders who were on the scene for months, Schechter said that Kropp received 11 per cent, McHugh, eight per cent, he received two per cent and Sloan .06 per cent. Under the circumstances, he sees his two per cent as good and is looking forward to another poll because in the intervening time, he has managed to make himself known in the Broome County area in particular.

Schechter discounts Sloan's candidacy and said he "doesn't see McHugh's campaign coming on in Broome County."

He suggested that as his campaign advances there is a growing awareness that a Catskill candidate is in a better position to serve this part of the district.

Using the incumbent Rep. Howard W. Robison as an example of "ineffectiveness" when it comes to servicing the Catskill region, Schechter said that Robison has offices in Ulster, Delaware, Sullivan and Broome counties but still "no one knows it."

"Most people are not aware that Robison is their congressman here, they think Hamilton Fish is," Schechter said, asking "how much more could we expect if someone from the other end of the district is elected again? We have been disenfranchised."

He said he hopes to demonstrate to the people of Sullivan, Ulster and Delaware that their best interests lie with a candidate from the Catskill region.

Schechter also thinks his place on the ballot will be helpful to him. Kropp is first, running along side gubernatorial candidate Howard Samuels and Schechter is second alongside Hugh Carey for governor. Sloan is third and McHugh fourth. "It's good for Kropp and its good for me," he conjectured.

The only thing that seems to worry Schechter at all is lethargy among the voters which he feels is "enormous."

"I don't think there will be a big turnout and I would do well with a big turnout," he said. The only county where he anticipates more than the usual amount of voters will be in Ulster County due to the fact that there will be a referendum on increasing the terms of legislators on the ballot.

Regarding the identity crisis that all the candidates are suffering from in the enormous 250-mile long district, Schechter, who resides in Lake Hill, said he is becoming better known in Broome where he will need to pick up a large number of votes to win.

And, that is where he is putting the greatest number of his advertising dollars for television exposure the last week of the campaign.

He has films of him talking with senior citizens in a park bench setting in front of the Broome County Court House and another with popular former Binghamton Mayor John Burns who is supporting Schechter's candidacy.

The former Robert Kennedy campaign worker, said his past affiliation with the Kennedy's Harold Brown and committee has been helpful to him in his campaigning, especially in places such as Tioga where there is a strong Kennedy sentiment, he said.

The experience Schechter gained in mass communications while working with Kennedy is his "strong suit," he said, and he intends to keep putting it to work through direct mail, press releases and television, and speaking engagements.

As Primary Day draws near, Schechter said he will then once again get down to precinct politics enlisting the aid of Ulster Democratic Chairman Harold Brown and committee men throughout the district to get the vote out.

Resseguie Names Campaign Heads

BINGHAMTON — Franklin B. Resseguie, candidate for the Republican nomination in the 27th Congressional District, has named two administrative officers for his Ulster County Campaign Committee.

Mrs. Lillian Croswell of Manor Drive, Shokan, will serve as Ulster County chairman for the Elect Resseguie Committee. Now vice chairman of the Town of Olive Republican Committee, she has been active in Republican town and county politics for the past 14 years.

She served as chairman of the Ulster County Republican campaign headquarters for seven years, helped organize and later assisted with the Town of Olive campaign headquarters, and has been active in numerous community and public service organizations. She is chairman of the Civil Beautification Committee of the Tongore Garden Club, president of the Town of Olive Public Health Committee, and secretary of the Ulster County Public Health Committee.

Named co-chairman of the Elect Resseguie Committee in Ulster County is Mrs. Antoinette Tennant of Samsonville. Mrs. Tennant, in addition to producing a Town of Olive news program over a Kingston radio station, is president of the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance and has been active in the Republican Campaign Committee for several years.

In 1973, Mrs. Tennant was voted Ulster County's outstanding senior citizen and received the New York State Achievement Award from the State Legislature. She has been active with the Tongore Garden Club, the American Association of University Women, the Woodstock League of Women Voters, the Kingston YWCA, and the Town of Olive Environmental Conservation Advisory Council.

"I am extremely fortunate to have two such experienced and capable women join my organization," Resseguie said in announcing the appointments.

Ford on Amnesty . . . McHugh Applauds Stand

ITHACA — Matthew F. McHugh, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 27th Congressional District, raised some questions today in response to President Ford's statement on leniency for Vietnam war resisters.

"Amnesty," said McHugh, "is the only reasonable and compassionate course for this country to follow in dealing with those who had conscientious moral objections to what they felt was an immoral war."

McHugh congratulated the President for changing the rigid stance of the former Administration on the amnesty issue. "However, there are still some very important questions related to this matter," McHugh said. "For example, what time period will be attached to any form of alternative service, and what will the alternatives be for those people who chose not to serve?"

"I believe that any conditions placed on repatriation should not be considered as punishment," McHugh said. "The alternative choices for fulfilling a service obligation which are offered should be quite broad and not demeaning in any sense."

McHugh said that "a country which spent billions of dollars on rehabilitating the economies of Germany and Japan after the second World War, a war about which there was very little moral conflict, has little choice but to be compassionate and lenient toward its own young men who objected to the Viet conflict, a war which produced tremendous division and moral controversy."

Fish Office Open Wednesday

KINGSTON — Ulster County residents will have a opportunity to meet with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., during the congressional recess on Wednesday, Aug. 28 from 2:30 to 5 p.m. at his Kingston office, 292 Fair Street.

It is recommended that constituents call for an appointment.

Congressman Fish will also be in Saugerties at the Veteran of Foreign Wars Hall, Livingston Street, Monday, Sept. 9 from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

For Dutchess County and Town of Lloyd residents, Fish will be in his Poughkeepsie District Office, 62 Market Street, Tuesday, Aug. 27, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 5, will find Fish in the Village of Dover Plains at the Firehouse from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Monday Sept. 9, he will be in the Village of Red Hook at the Town Hall from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed rate schedule for temporary suspension of business service, to be effective September 6, 1974, has been filed with the Public Service Commission pursuant to Order issued November 26, 1973 in Case 26158.

Income and outgoing service will be suspended at the subscriber's request, provided that all service furnished to the subscriber on the same premises is suspended at the same time and restored at the same time.

The associated equipment will be left in place and directory listings will be continued without change. The subscriber may request that the telephone Company inform persons calling the telephone number of the suspended service that the subscriber's calls are being received at another number, provided that facilities for forwarding this service are available.

The maximum period of suspension is 12 consecutive months.

Rates and Charges

The rates and charges specified below apply to all "pay" rates, including mileage, for the suspended service and facilities except cable carrying charges, monthly construction charges and monthly charges for services subject to "A" and "B" monthly rates, which apply regardless of suspension. Where the suspension period includes a fraction of a month, the subscriber's monthly allowance in message units under message rate schedules is prorated.

Service Order Charge to suspend and subsequently resume all services furnished to a subscriber on the same premises. $15.00

Central Office Charge for Central Office line, intrastate WATS line, PBX trunk, Central CO trunk, Central CO primary station and mileage circuit suspended. $15.00

Premises Work Charge at time of restoration of service. $6.00 per visit plus $36.00 per station in excess of one.

Monthly Rate each Central Office line, intrastate WATS line, PBX trunk, Central CO and CO primary station, and mileage circuit suspended.

Atkinson Scores State Prison System

MRS. RICHARD J. MESSINA

KINGSTON Paul Atkinson, Liberal Party candidate for State Senator in the 40th District, today denounced the New York State penal system as being "economically wasteful and a direct threat to public safety." "Prison" must be eliminated totally and replaced by rehabilitation centers, and that doesn't mean just slapping a new sign over the doors," he suggests.

Atkinson said cells must be replaced by rooms and inmates must have counseling and competent psychiatric care, as well as skilled job training and the opportunity to complete their education.

Campaign Coordinator

Democratic candidate for the town of 17 years and an Assembly in the 101st District, Maurice Hinchey, is seeking volunteers to assist her. She said she welcomes per-campaign activities in the Town of Saugerties, to aid Hinchey in his quest for Mrs. Messina, a resident of the assembly seat.

hearts: self-defense and to save in terms of physical threat to and stability to hold a decent job would be a wise an finally cheap one indeed.

Predicting that "the initial the taxpayers hard earned in hard cash.

much is this going to cost and Atkinson said "the current prison system isn't working. The majority of offenders are back within five years on a more serious charge. The victim who pays for this inexcusable failure is you, first offenders the skills, guidance schools for crime."

Local Greek Cypriots Condemn Killing

KINGSTON — The Greek Cypriot Crisis Committee met Tuesday night for what it called "an urgent meeting" to take action with regard to the killing of United States Ambassador Rodger Davies.

According to Steve Katsafouras, chairman of the committee, the group passed a unanimous resolution in which it labeled the killing "a wanton act of violence on the part of misguided individuals worthy only of the strongest possible condemnation."

Katsafouras said the committee further condemned the attack and the damages to the U.S. Embassy in Nicosia and the desecration of the American flag.

"It is our hope that the traditional friendship between the Republic of Cyprus and the United States will survive these deplorable and senseless acts, which do not further the legitimate desires and aspirations of the Greek Cypriot people for liberty to reign in a just and honorable manner," it concluded.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Deploing the killing of U.S. Ambassador to Cyprus, Rodger B. Davies, Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman today urged legislation to allow Greek Cypriot refugees to come to the United States.

"The death of Ambassador Davies underscores the need for a total and effective cease fire on Cyprus," Gilman said. "Cool heads are needed now more than ever to prevent this conflict from escalating into a major worldwide confrontation. Both sides must exercise restraint rather than fostering further mindless violence."

Gilman said the Congress should consider legislation cutting off aid to Turkey and permitting the fleeing Cypriot refugees to come to the U.S.

"I will introduce legislation in the House of Representatives," Gilman said, "to open our arms to refugees from Cyprus as we have throughout our history to refugees from many other war-torn nations.

"My bill would provide a place to go for Cypriots, whose homeland has been a battlefield for too long," he said.

Gilman has last week co-sponsored resolutions calling on Turkey to withdraw from Cyprus, for the restoration of constitutional government, and for suspension of U.S. aid to the Turks if they fail to comply.

FOLLOWED SUIT IN SOUP — As the ferry boat "Vineyard Queen" lies on her side, passengers are rescued from excursion boat "Nantascot" (rear) after both crafts ran aground off Castle Island near Boston on Tuesday. The Vineyard Queen with 88 passengers aboard ran aground in heavy fog and the Nantascot ran aground when it moved in to help. There were no serious injuries reported and all passengers were rescued. Watergate Facts Exposed, but . . .

Why the Big Unanswered Point

HONOLULU (AP) — The basic facts of Watergate have been exposed but a more complex question lingers: Why?

Some of the nation's most respected legal figures pondered and speculated during this past week on the motives of the men who twisted legal ethics and public trust into conspiracy, crime and cover-up.

The consensus was that the all-consuming quest of re-election of Richard Nixon blinded the Ehrlichmans, Segretis and others to a greater obligation to the public good.

But at least two of the speakers at the 97th annual convention of the American Bar Association offered the opinion that the Watergate figures were not necessarily evil men, but amoral.

Perhaps the most simple and quietly eloquent reply to the question of why came from Sen. Sam Ervin on Friday:

"The lust for political power of the presidential aides who perpetrated Watergate on America blinded them to the laws of God as well as to the laws and ethics of men."

The new laws of men that may emanate from Watergate will not guarantee it from happening again, said Ervin, who led the Senate's Watergate investigation.

"The law does not make men good," Ervin told a prayer breakfast.

"This task can be performed only by ethics or religion or morality," he said.

Former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson cited a combination of possible factors: an obsession with winning, total belief in their patriotic motives, supercharged organizational zeal, a feeling that anyone who wasn't "with us" was the enemy.

"One has, then, all the ingredients needed to rationalize the conviction that the end is all-important," said Richardson, whose resignation last Oct. 20 gave impetus to the impeachment movement.

The attorney who prosecuted former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said, "When we look for the fault that led them to such dreadful deeds, it must be a confusion between the means and the ends."

George Beall, the U.S. attorney for Maryland, said an obvious lesson from "the sorry events" of the past two years is that there can be no double standard for any attorney or public official confronting decisions involving basic honesty.

Archibald Cox, fired in the Oct. 20 "Saturday Night Massacre" as Watergate prosecutor, said he was less concerned about the major actors in the Watergate drama.

"Their fault was great and their weakness was apparent," he told the bar's 97th annual convention.

"For me, the worrisome figures in the Watergate story . . . were the relatively minor figures who made it possible for the major wrongs to continue."

They did it by silence and emulating one, or all three of the three monkeys symbolizing: "Hear no evil. See no evil. Speak no evil."

But there was another, perhaps unexpected, thread running through the analysis of what motivated the Watergate figures: That they were not inherently evil men or corrupted by the quest for personal monetary gain.

Richardson said, "A fallacy that must be purged at the outset is the notion that the chief actors in Watergate were uniquely evil men."

"Among their personal characteristics, in fact, are some that are highly esteemed by our society: for instance, the determination to succeed, to prevail," he said.

"Watergate was not a tragedy so much of immoral men as of amoral men, not so much of ruthless men as of rootless men."

Beall echoed that theme by saying it would be too easy to dismiss Watergate as the result of bad men "devoid of ordinary moral sense."

He viewed their attitude as the ultimate rationalization that "everybody does it."

"There is an unhappy resemblance between the attitude of the Watergate conspirators and the attitude of many of us toward the relationship of means to ends," he said.

One example he cited was the truckers who resorted to violence in protest of fuel rationings.

Ervin said the Watergate figures resorted to evil means. But he said, "Unlike the men who were responsible for Teapot Dome, the presidential aides who perpetrated Watergate were not seduced by the love of money, which is sometimes said to be the root of all evil. "On the contrary, they were instigated by a lust for political power, which is at least as corrupting as political power itself."

Democrats Resort
To Their Old Ways

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years of trying to settle their reform controversy, Democrats are back to the same kind of hair-pulling strife which tore the party apart in 1972.

Probably the last chance to salvage the party's reconciliation effort in time for the 1976 presidential year will come this December at the first mid-term Party Conference, a miniaturized version of the national convention.

It may be too late to restore unity for this year's elections in the wake of a walkout by blacks, women and white liberals from the final meeting of the Democratic Charter Commission on Sunday. They charged that party "regulars" were bent on an item-by-item overhaul of reform efforts.

The disenchanted reform wing left threatening to retaliate in the fall by withholding support from some Democratic candidates.

Although the party regulars outvoted the more avid reformers by three to one at the commission's closing session in Kansas City, the balance will be much closer at the conference in December.

Ironically, the blowup, which derailed party chairman Robert S. Strauss's unity campaign, was brought on by efforts to push through modifications he felt would avert just such a split.

The Strauss-backed changes were aimed at giving the reformers some of what they wanted but not enough to alienate the regulars who are still smarting over the McGovern Commission rules that kept many of them from the 1972 convention in Miami Beach.

But once the rollback got started and the regular-labor conservative bloc saw how much muscle it had, Strauss's lieutenants lost control and were unable to stop it.

Analysis

The break-up of Strauss's rapprochement began over an article designed to open up the party and which contained the ghost of the 1972 quotas.

The black members protested when the regulars began chipping away at this article. The Kansas City commission voted to report four alternatives to the mid-term conference which must now make the painful choice.

The alternatives range from required quotas to virtually no requirement to encourage minority participation.

The more moderate members wanted to report the draft charter to the December conference as it then stood.

But the labor forces, encouraged by their strength and angered by black and liberal threats of a walkout, pressed on. First they knocked out a plank that would allow the national party to "establish criteria for participation in the Democratic party."

Then they introduced an amendment that would have stricken, among other things, the ban on the unit rule which allows a majority of a delegation to cast all of the group's votes.

This is what brought the walkout, and with less than a quorum remaining, chairman Terry Sanford was forced to adjourn the meeting, saying the charter as it then stood would be forwarded to the December conference.

What Strauss has to do between now and December is either to take sides and let the losers take a walk or try to restore the fragile spirit of compromise.

An indication of his course came Monday when he called the walkout a publicity tactic by the black who led the move, California Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr.

The Democrats would be in dire trouble without the coalition of labor, blacks, liberals, the women's movement, the intellectual community and the various other groups which traditionally have formed the national party.

Other Ford Shifts Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers, Richard M. Nixon once vowed, "Never, never, never."

Eleven days after he succeeded Nixon as President, Gerald R. Ford said of those who fled the country rather than serve in Vietnam: "I want them to come home, if they want to work their way back."

"These young Americans should have a second chance . . . Ford told a veterans convention in Chicago on Monday. "So I am throwing the weight of my presidency into the scales of justice on the side of leniency. I foresee their earned re-entry into a new atmosphere of hope, hard work, and mutual trust."

Analysis

The dramatic shift in policy is a result of what administration officials describe as a broad-scale, continuing review of Nixon positions on a range of issues which Ford inherited when he took office.

The review could result in other dramatic policy changes,

Reagan Chances
Appear Remote

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The chances of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan running for president or vice president in 1976 or four years later seemed to go out the window Tuesday.

"The possibilities now are very remote," said one long-time political associate of Reagan, once tagged the "fastest rising Republican star of the West."

Reagan, 63, who will retire this year after two terms as chief executive of the nation's most populous state, has crisscrossed the country as a GOP fundraiser for years looking and sounding like a presidential contender. He usually led in the polls.

He has never said publicly that he wanted to be president, insisting "the office seeks the man." He consistently has said he would announce his decision in 1975.

But President Ford's nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as his vice president seemed to dash cold water on any hopes Reagan might have had for getting himself installed as a running mate in 1976.

Then came Rockefeller's report that Ford indicated he had "every intention" of seeking a full term at the next national election.

Reagan said after the announcement of Ford's nomination the development had "no effect" on his plans to embark next year on a nationwide speaking tour to further spread his conservative political philosophy.

For 1976, Reagan seemed counted out because he probably wouldn't challenge an incumbent Republican president. For 1980, he seemed a highly unlikely contender because he will be 69 years old.

"It appears to me that there's very little chance for the governor to hold either of the nation's highest offices now, unless something very unexpected happened," said an advisor who asked not to be named.

especially on domestic issues, and is intended to place an indelible Ford stamp on the presidency, one advisor said. It also is intended to demonstrate Ford's ability to "bind up the nation's wounds."

Mayors who met with Ford at the White House last week were impressed with his pledge of a fresh look at urban problems.

The mayors recounted how Ford said that as President, his views will be broader than those he held as a Republican congressman from Grand Rapids, Mich., representing a narrow, conservative constituency.

Afterwards, one Democratic mayor told a friend: "This guy may be more liberal than you think."

The phrases used by Ford in his Chicago speech could easily have been uttered by someone as liberal as, say, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I ask all Americans who ever asked for goodness and mercy in their lives, who ever sought forgiveness for trespassers, to join in rehabilitating all the casualties of all the tragic conflicts that are past," Ford said.

But those close to Ford reject suggestions that his speech signals a shift to the left for a man generally considered

Annual Onteora Summer Chorus Concert Scheduled

Percy Gazlay, minister of music at Fair Street Reformed Church, will again direct the Onteora Summer Chorus at its 23rd annual concert Wednesday, Aug. 28 at 8:15 p.m. at the J. Watson Bailey Jr. High School auditorium, Kingston.

Betty Lindsay, soprano, who has repeatedly delighted area audiences, will be the guest artist. She will be accompanied by the Chorus' pianist, Barbara Sparks, another well known musician. Featured composer will be Don Egry from Schenectady.

Mrs. Lindsay, a native of Wurtsboro, is the clerk-treasurer of that village. She is married and has two sons, but has found time in her busy housewife-mother-business woman role to sing. For the past 16 years, she has been a member of Fair Street Reformed Church Choir and has appeared locally with the Coach House Players for 10 years. While performing with this group, she has had the leading roles in "South Pacific," "Pajama Game," and "Sound of Music," and was Lady Tiang in "The King and I." She also has participated in the Hospital Follies and several Kiwanis Kapers productions.

Her vocal achievements include performances with the Chorus in the Empire State Music Festival production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, and Beethoven's "Ninth Choral Symphony," under the direction of Igor Markovitz.

For the past 10 years, she has been the featured soloist with the Yankee Male Chorus on its barn storming tours through New England. Her current commitment with the Mid-Hudson Repertory Summer Theatre's presentation of "Anything Goes" and "Company" prevented her from touring this year.

Mrs. Lindsay has been a member of Onteora Summer Chorus for 14 years.

Mrs. Sparks, who is in her 16th season as accompanist for Onteora Summer Chorus, received her Piano Major degree at Crane School of Music at State University of New York at Potsdam. She has accompanied the Catskill Glee Club for 12 years and the Yankee Male Chorus on its barn storming tours for the last 15 years. For several seasons, she was accompanist for the Ulster County Community College Chorus, and the Coach House Players in their productions of "South Pacific" and "Guys and Dolls."

Don Egry earned his degree in Music Education at the State University of New York at Potsdam. He played piano in a nightclub in Albany for a year before joining the U.S. Army Band at West Point as a dance band and jazz pianist. Afterwards, he taught music in a state institution for the mentally retarded, and studied piano for two years with Alton Jones of Juilliard.

While teaching music in the Arlington School System, he earned a MS degree in Guidance at Albany and is presently a guidance counselor in Arlington.

Egry started writing pop music about 1966 and has written approximately 30 songs. Together with his arranger, Gary McCartney on the electric guitar, and Jimmy Schettino on the drums, they formed the Don Egry Trio, entertaining audiences in the Dutchess County area.

Two of Don Egry's songs, "How Can I Watch Her Walk Away" and "Try to Understand Me Now," will be presented in concert by the Onteora Summer Chorus on August 28th.

Tickets may be purchased from any Chorus member or at the door. Special rates are available for senior citizens and children under 12 years of age.

'Craft Mart' at SuperFair

Trying its wings at last year's New York State SuperFair in Syracuse was the fledgling "Craft Mart" whose nesting ground at the Art & Home Center attracted so many interested fairgoers that the new addition is expected to soar at the 1974 fair August 27 to September 2.

The "Craft Mart" is actually an extension of the Creative Arts Demonstration program sponsored annually by the Art & Home Center in which upwards of 15 New York State craftsmen demonstrate their skills throughout fair week. The need for the shop became evident when the craftsmen became beseiged with purchase requests during their demonstrations. These are now handled exclusively through the "Craft Mart."

This year, fairgoers will be able to select from such hand made creations as glass figurines and glass lamps; silver worked jewelry; pottery, ecology art, origami, brooms, thumbprint sketches, decorated eggs, hand-blocked material sewn into clothing, and country ware painted in an antique style.

According to Mrs. Ruth Henry of Skaneateles, manager of the "Craft Mart," there will be other items relating to Art & Home activities available as well. Included will be a variety of cookbooks featured in the Food Demonstration Kitchen such as The High Maples Farm Cookbook by Edna Smith Berquist; the Spice Cook Book and Large Type Cook Book by Aveline S. Day; The A to Z No-Cook Cookbook by Felipe Rojas-Lombardi; and The Maurice Moore-Betty Cooking School Book of Fine Cooking.

Also, the shop will feature "Patchwork Primers," patchwork quilt kits, and prize-winning entries in the creative arts and photography competitions.

The "Craft Mart" gift shop is located just inside the main entrance of the Art & Home Center on the New York State Fairgrounds and will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day of the seven-day fair.

Toy Party
The Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company No. 4, Zena, will sponsor a toy party Thursday, Sept. 5 after the 8 p.m. meeting. Members are invited to bring a guest.

Her fiancé, a 1969 alumnus of KHS, also attended UCCC and was graduated from Alfred State College, class of 1973. He is employed by the New York State Department of Transportation.

A June, 1975 wedding is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cohen of 259 Millers Lane Extension, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Howard A. Blas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Blas of 54 Linderman Avenue, Kingston.

Miss Cohen, a graduate of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, attended State University of New York at Cortland. She is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Kingston Data Center.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of KHS, served four years in the U.S. Air Force, and is now attending Dutchess County Community College.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Crawford-Shultis

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford of Bloomsburg, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Carol Lee, to Gary Steven Shultis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shultis of 1249 Van Vliet Road, Saugerties.

The ceremony, which was written by the bride and groom, took place August 19 in Miller Chapel at Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa. Officiating clergymen were the Rev. Carl Y. Ehrhart DD and the Rev. James O. Bemederfer DD. Musical selections were provided by Dr. Pierce A. Getz, professor of organ, LVC, and Miss Kim Ruhland, flutist. Family blessings were given by both sets of parents during the ceremony.

The bride selected a silk organza gown in the Empire styling fashioned with long sleeves and stand-up collar trimmed with Venetian lace. The bodice and skirt were accented with re-embroidered roses. Her elbow-length veil was trimmed with lace and she carried three yellow roses.

Miss Carolyn A. Bronck of Glen Ridge, N.J., was maid of honor in an Empire styled gown of yellow crepe dotted with small gold and white flowers. She wore a headpiece of yellow pompons and carried a chimney globe candle surrounded with white carnations and yellow pompon chrysanthemums.

Attendants were Mrs. John (Cathy) Lockwood, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Lynn Crawford, sister of the bride, Bloomsburg. Miss Lisa Randall of Malden served as flower girl. Attendants' gowns in mint green were styled identically to the honor attendant's. They wore similar headpieces and carried similar floral arrangements. The flower girl wore a yellow crepe gown with long sleeves and a collar of white cotton blend dotted with small flowers. She carried a small white basket of white carnations and yellow pompons.

Jonathan D. Lippert of Stewartstown, Pa., was best man. Ushering were Alan Shultis and Peter Shultis, Saugerties, brothers of the bridegroom. Matthew Randall of Malden was ringbearer.

A reception took place in the college dining room. The bride received her BS degree in Music Education from Lebanon Valley College and is presently working on courses to qualify for registration as a music therapist.

Her husband also earned his BS in Music Education at LVC. He is employed by the College.

Mr. and Mrs. Shultis are residing in Annville, Pa.

Bullock-Auchmoody

Blue Mountain Reformed Church was the setting for the wedding of Natalie Bullock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bullock of Blue Mountain, and Charles Edward Auchmoody, son of Mrs. Betty Auchmoody of Rosendale and the late Lewis Auchmoody.

The Rev. Thomas Wray officiated at the ceremony August 10. Mrs. Alma Ramson, organist, provided wedding selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a sheer nylon organza gown accented with clusters of simulated pearls and sequins on the bodice. The attached chapel train featured lace trim. A petal headpiece held her silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and white carnations.

Miss Barbara Kleeman of Blue Mountain was maid of honor in a Nile green gown of polyester and cotton voile in the Empire styling. She wore a white picture hat and carried a nosegay of yellow carnations with white streamers.

Attendants were Darlene Baker of Lake Katrine and Marsha Bullock of Blue Mountain. They wore maize-yellow gowns styled identically to the honor attendant's, with yellow picture hats, and nosegays of green carnations.

Candy Baker of Lake Katrine and Alisa Auchmoody of Bloomington served as flower girls in full length gowns with a yellow floral pattern on a white background. They wore ribbons in their hair and carried baskets of yellow, green and white carnations.

Dany Hoyt of Tillson was best man. Ushering were Lewis Auchmoody of Bloomington and Mark Baker of Lake Katrine.

A reception was given at Doggie's Place, Quarryville. The bride, a 1967 graduate of Saugerties High School, is employed by F. L. Russell, Inc., at Mt. Marion.

The bridegroom, a 1968 alumnus of Rondout Valley High School, is employed by Colonial Roofing Inc., Kingston.

The couple will reside at West Saugerties.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter will be married soon in the groom's hometown, and they will be living there after the wedding. Since most of our friends will not be able to attend the wedding, I want to send announcements. We do NOT want them to be a bid for gifts, but certain people will surely want to send something if they know where to send it. What is the best way to include the couple's new address?

MRS. E.J.
Dear Mrs. J. Enclose "at home" cards with your announcements. They are worded:

Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be at home
After September 1

friends of the newlyweds' address, but carry no obligation to send a gift. If you think that your friends may misinterpret this, send the announcement without the address card. Those who wish to send a present will surely call or write you to get your daughter's address.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received an invitation to a debut, which will take place in September. I cannot go, but I would very much like to send a gift. What is appropriate? I have never been asked to a debut before, and I wonder just what is expected.

BETH

Dear Beth: Debuts are becoming so rare that I suppose the next generation will not even know what they are, let alone what gifts to send!

If the debutante is not a close friend, you do not need to send a gift. If she is, or if she is a relative, simple jewelry is most appropriate. A gold bracelet, a chain with a pendant or a pin are all popular and useful. You may have the date of the debut engraved on the back if feasible.

If you do not care to send jewelry, an ornament for the girl's room, a leather scrapbook, picture frame or telephone number book all would make appropriate gifts.

For suggestions about to whom, when, how and what to give, you will find my booklet, "Gifts and Giving," most helpful. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

Unmarrieds Unwelcome in Wisconsin Motel

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A mother writes that her adult daughter is coming home for a visit and she's bringing her boyfriend, with whom she has been living for a year. Mother's dilemma: Should she let them share a bedroom in her home, knowing they live together elsewhere? Mother says she doesn't approve of living together without marriage.

YOU ADVISED: "Tell them that in your home they have to go by your rules, and if they don't like it, send 'em to a motel."

Abby, please don't send them to MY motel. In Wisconsin, it's against the law to rent rooms to unmarrieds. We are protected only if they register as "Mr. and Mrs."

Below is the State Law concerning cohabitation, which we have posted in every one of our motel rooms: "Wisconsin Statutes Pertaining to Sexual Crimes Between Adults with Consent. 944.15 — Fornication. Whoever has sexual intercourse with a person not his spouse may be fined $200 or imprisoned not more than 6 months or both."

944.16 — Adultery. Either of the following may be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than 3 years or both: (1) A married person who has sexual intercourse with a person not his spouse. (2) A person who has sexual intercourse with a person who is married to another."

MOTEL OWNER, THORP, WISC. DEAR OWNER: Thanks for the interesting law lesson. (Is that why they call Wisconsin the "Badger State?")

DEAR ABBY: I've been married a year. It is my first marriage and my husband's second. Already I think I have problems. My husband has a partner in a business venture. The partner's wife never misses a chance to give me an earful of dirt on the first wife.

I have met my husband's first wife and found her to be a very warm, sincere individual. My husband and she were incompatible after several years of marriage and mutually consented to divorce. She must surely have had some merit for my husband to have married her. I have a better opinion of the first wife, whom I have never heard say a degrading word about anyone, than I do of this partner's wife, who belittles her own mother in front of even casual acquaintances.

How do you keep people like this out of your hair?

FED UP WITH PARTNER'S WIFE DEAR FED: With a brush — at every opportunity.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a 36-year-old daughter to please sit up straight? Or do you think it's too late? Her posture makes me sick. She was always tall for her age and was so self-conscious about it she would go around stoop-shouldered. She looked like a hunchback.

I took her to an orthopedic doctor when she was 13 just to make sure she didn't have some kind of spinal deformity. He took X rays and said she was perfect.

It still bothers me to see such a beautiful girl slouch all the time when she could look so nice. Any advice?

TEXAS MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Apparently your daughter tuned you out years ago. But if you ever succeed in getting a 36-year-old woman to listen to her mother, please let me know your secret. A few million readers would appreciate it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr. Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions."

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

With a long telephone cord, and carrying it from room to room, in time it becomes quite twisted. To get the twists out easily, just set the telephone on a lazy Susan on your floor and rotate the Lazy Susan in the opposite direction and you have a straight cord again.

MRS. M.G.W. Dear Heloise: Did you know that most stores have their spices stocked in alphabetic order on the shelves. Saves time if a person knows about it.

A FAN True! And I never knew it HELoise

Dear Heloise: Many thanks to the gal with her hint about using clips to anchor her car keys on anything inside her purse where they would show. I always had to dig for my keys!

I keep some of those small and large clips or paper clips in my kitchen drawer. Here's one good use for them

Occasionally I prepare some of my own quickie frozen meals in empty trays saved from frozen dinners.

When I get ready to heat a dinner, I cover it with an empty tray, using a small clip on each side to clamp the empty tray on top for a cover. Mrs. Charlie Foust I've used those empty trays to make up things for the oven, too, only I just crimped some foil over the top. I like your idea much better.

HELOISE Dear Heloise: My little sweetheart just woke up. He's sure been a wonderful addition to this household. Even if it does mean I'm on "diaper duty" for awhile.

You guessed it! My sweetheart is 3 months old! A READER

Breads are so popular in our diets, we Americans can share the unique breads of our own heritage, yet still enjoy those of other cultures. Irish scones are a good example. Traditionally an oat or barley bread, scones are shaped into flat rounds, slashed into equal sections and baked on a griddle.

Now home economists from the Diamond Walnut kitchen have created a California version. It keeps every appeal of this Irish favorite and yet considers the current swing toward naturalness in foods. Made from scratch, these new Irish scones have an interesting "rough" walnut-strewn surface that's eye appealing, and the crunchiness of walnuts deliciously punctuates each mouthful when you taste them. Whole wheat flour is stirred into the mixture to suggest that fresh, earthen flavor folks love.

Split triangles of these oven-warm scones and spread with marmalade butter — either marmalade and butter served separately, or mixed together, using one-quarter cup marmalade to each one-half cup butter. Or maybe you have another favorite spread in mind like honey, apple jelly or plum conserve. Whatever the choice, one taste of these scones will have the crowd clamoring "More!"

Walnut Whole Wheat Scones

One-half cup California walnuts
One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour
Three tablespoons granulated sugar
Three teaspoons baking powder

Three-quarter teaspoon salt
One-half cup whole wheat flour
One-half cup butter or margarine
Two eggs
One-third cup milk

Chop walnuts medium-fine and set aside. Resift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in whole wheat flour. Cut in butter until particles resemble coarse meal. Beat eggs. Remove one tablespoon egg to brush tops of scones. Combine remainder of eggs with milk and stir into dry mixture. Stir in walnuts, reserving about 2 tablespoons for tops of scones. Turn out onto greased baking sheet. With floured hands, pat out dough to an 8-inch circle. Cut two-thirds through into eight wedges. Brush tops with reserved egg and sprinkle with remaining walnuts. Bake at 400 degrees F. for about 20 minutes, until nicely browned. Cut scones apart and serve hot. Makes 8 scones.

There is something especially refreshing about lemon pie. It also is insidiously good and most find it difficult to stop with one wedge. For a change of pace try a Fresh Lemon Bavarian Pie which is served chilled with a topping of whipped cream. Or, few will refuse your Fresh Lemon Meringues filed with Lemon Cream.

Fresh Lemon Bavarian Pie

One envelope unflavored gelatin
Four-quarter cup cold water
Four eggs, separated
One cup sugar, divided
One-half cup fresh lemon juice
One-half teaspoon salt
One teaspoon grated lemon rind
One-third cup heavy cream, whipped
One baked 9-inch pastry shell
Additional whipped cream
Lemon slices
Softened unflavored gelatin
In one-quarter cup cold water

Lemon Pie Has Bavarian Accent...

Combine egg whites and salt in bowl; beat until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar. Drop in 10 mounds, a heaping teaspoonful at a time, onto foil on baking sheet. Make depression in center of each with back of spoon. Bake in 275 degree oven 2 hours. Cool and remove from foil. Fill center with Lemon Cream Filling just before serving. If desired, garnish with unsweetened whipped cream and grated lemon rind.

LEMON CREAM FILLING:
Four egg yolks
One-half cup sugar
One-half teaspoon mace
One-sixteenth teaspoon salt
One-quarter cup fresh lemon juice
One-half teaspoon grated lemon rind
One-half cup heavy cream, whipped
Beat egg yolks with sugar, mace, salt and lemon juice until well blended in top of double broiler. Cook over hot water until thickened, stirring

Fresh Lemon Meringues

Four egg whites
One-sixteenth teaspoon salt
One-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar
One cup sugar

Helpful Food Hints

Cooked lentils make a thrifty and filling salad. Save the liquid in which you have cooked the lentils and add it to a barley soup. Because the mixture may look drab, you may want to add lots of minced parsley or scallion.

When you are making crepes and need to use 2 tablespoons of batter for each, you'll find a standard coffee measure with a long handle is a helpful gadget for measuring out the correct amount into the small skillet or crepe pan.

Second 1-Hitter for Moret

It's a one-hitter in the record book but a no-hitter in Roger Moret's heart.

The 24-year old Puerto Rican left-hander yielded only a seventh inning infield single to Dick Allen Wednesday when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox. It was the second time in two weeks that he carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning and this time he claimed credit for a feat for which he is not officially credited.

Moret, who had a no-hitter for 7-2-3 innings against Milwaukee on Aug. 7, wasn't quarrelling with the official scorer. He blamed himself for failing to field the slow roller Allen hit and which glanced off this glove to second baseman

Doug Griffin, who had no play. "For me, that's a no-hitter," he said. "The ball hit my glove at the fingertips and I slowed it down. When you get the ball in your hand and miss it, it's not a hit."

Texas defeated Baltimore, 5-1; New York beat Minnesota, 4-1; Cleveland rallied for a 7-6 victory over Kansas City; California shaded Detroit, 2-0, and Milwaukee topped Oakland, 5-3, in other American League games.

National League results were Los Angeles 7 Chicago 5, Montreal 8 San Diego 7, Pittsburgh 4 San Francisco 2, Atlanta 5 St. Louis 4, New York 10 Houston 2 and Philadelphia 10 Cincinnati 3.

Moret walked two batters and struck out 12 in besting Wilbur Wood, who suffered his 15th loss against 18 wins. Rookie outfielder Jim Rice, the Red Sox designated hitter, had two hits, including a bases-filled single in the seventh inning.

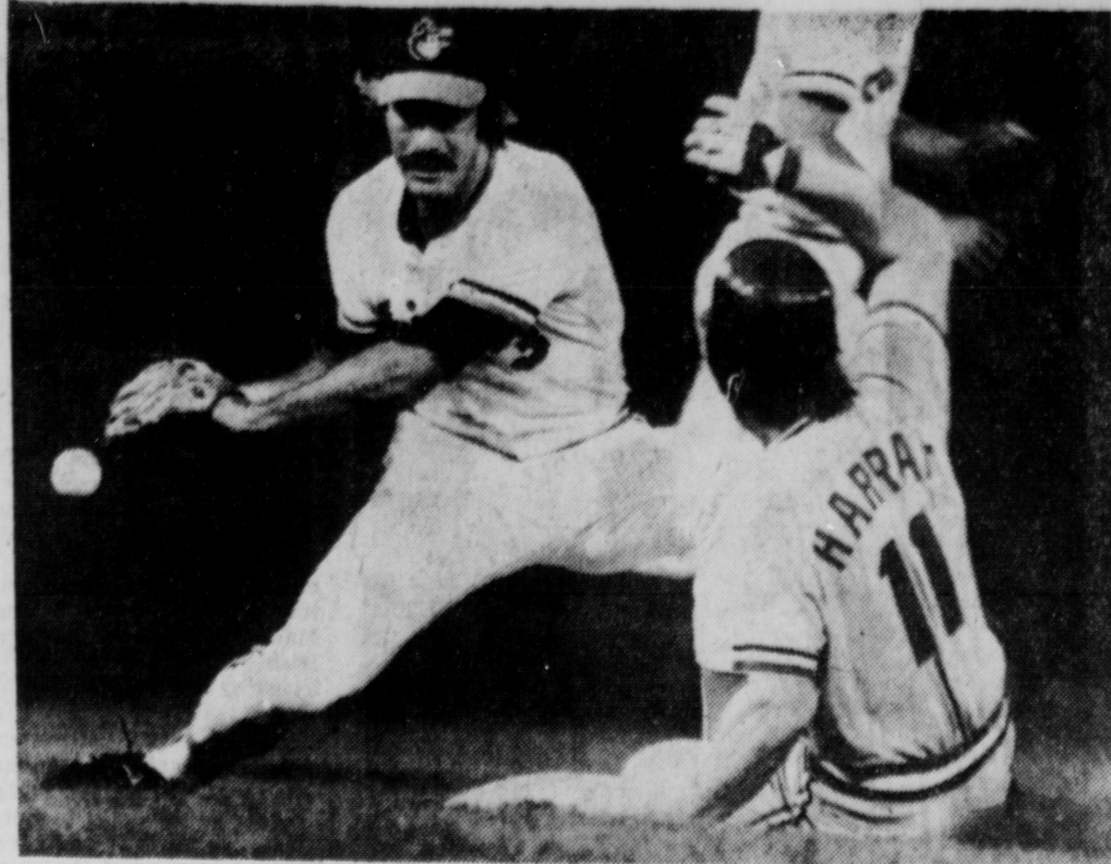

It was Moret's seventh victory of the season against five losses. He had a 13-2 record for the Red Sox last season.

Rangers 5 Orioles 1

Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer, his 25th, enabled Jim Bibby to win his 18th game for the Rangers with the late inning relief help of Jim Merritt and Steve Foucault. Ross Grimsley suffered his 11th loss for the Orioles.

Yankees 4 Twins 1

Graig Nettles had a run-scoring double and a two-run single for the Yankees as George Medich raised his record to 15-11 with a six-hitter. Nettles' single capped a three-run third-inning rally which helped to hand Bill Butler his sixth setback.

Old Dock Ellis Right Tonic For Pirates' Pennant Surge

It's like old times for Dock Ellis and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ellis posted records of 19-9 and 15-7 in 1971 and 1972, respectively, when he led Pittsburgh to consecutive division titles. However, he dropped off to 12-14 last season as the Pirates finished third and was saddled with a less-than-spectacular 3-8 record through July 14 of this year when the Bucs were seven games out of first place.

At that point, the 29-year-old right-hander regained his winning form and Wednesday night ran off his seventh consecutive victory when he tossed a seven-hitter and contributed a run-scoring single in the Pirates' 4-2 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

The win, the Pirates' 24th in 36 games since July 14, moved Pittsburgh to within 1½ games of first place St. Louis in the National League East Division. "I'm not now, nor was I ever the ace of this staff," Ellis maintained after turning in his fifth complete game in his last seven starts. "We have 10 aces. Anyone pitching in the majors is an ace. I'm really not pitching that great."

"They're hitting the ball hard but the difference is it's going to the right place where we can make a play on it."

With the score tied 2-2, Willie Stargell led off the Pirates' eighth with a single and pinch-runner Gene Clines moved to third on Richie Zisk's single. After a forceout at second and an intentional walk to Ed Kirkpatrick loaded the bases, pinch-hitter Paul Popovich hit a sacrifice fly to snap the tie and Ellis followed with his RBI single.

In other NL games, Philadelphia clobbered Cincinnati, 10-3; Atlanta shaded St. Louis, 5-4; Los Angeles beat Chicago, 7-5; New York routed Houston, 10-2, and Montreal nipped San Diego, 8-7.

Phil 10, Reds 3

Mike Schmidt slammed his 31st and 32nd homers and drove in three runs to lead Philadelphia over Cincinnati as the Phils remained tied with Pittsburgh for second in the East and the Reds dropped 3½ games behind first place Los Angeles in the West. Schmidt's two homers tied him with Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox for the major league lead. The win went to Jim Lonborg, 14-11.

Braves 5, Cardinals 4

Mike Lum and Darrell Evans hit home runs to help Atlanta beat St. Louis and give the Braves a sweep of the three-game series. Evans' homer was his 16th and his third in three nights. Buzz Capra got the win to raise his record to 11-6. Lou Brock stole his 88th base for the Cards.

Dodgers 7, Cubs 5

Mike Marshall preserved Andy Messersmith's 14th victory in Los Angeles' triumph over Chicago. Willie Crawford homered for the Dodgers who completed a sweep of the three game series.

Mets 10, Astros 2

Rusty Staub drove in four runs with a double and sacrifice fly and Wayne Garrett collected three singles and two RBIs for New York in its victory over Houston. Jerry Kosman fired a six-hitter to earn his 12th win. Lee May homered for the Astros.

Expos 8, Padres 7

Barry Foote and Ron Hunt contributed RBI singles as Montreal rallied for two runs in the ninth to edge San Diego. Gene Locklear had given the Padres a 7-6 lead in the eighth with a pinch-hit home run. Bob Bailey smacked his 16th homer for the Expos.

Indians 7 Royals 6

Charlie Spikes hit a two-run homer in the first inning and capped a two-run ninth inning rally with a run-scoring single to give Tom Buskev his first victory in his 36th, relief appearance for Cleveland. Vada Pinson hit his eighth major league grand slam, and Fran Healy also homered for the Royals.

Angels 2 Tigers 0

Denny Doyle went 3-for-3 and drove in a run helping Andy Hassler win his third game against eight losses for the Angels. Lerrin LaGrew was tagged for only five hits but saw his record dip to 7-14 for Detroit.

Brewers 5 A's 3

Ken Berry's two-run single and Darrell Porter's RBI double were the big blows for the Brewers who handed John Odom his fourth defeat despite a two run homer by Reggie Jackson. Kevin Kobel and Tom Murphy combined to hold the A's to three hits with Kobel picking up his sixth triumph.

Blazers 11, Storm 7

Bob Davis threw 20 yards to Greg Latta for a TD and then passed to Latta for the action point as Florida beat the Storm before 15,451 in Orlando. Ken Johnson brought winless Portland to within a point with a one-yard TD but Les Perry's 2 yard field goal won it for Florida and kept the Blazers a game ahead of New York in the East.

Southmen 60, Hawaiians 8

John Huarte threw for four TDs in the first half and then took the rest of the night off as the Southmen set a WFL single game scoring record against the Hawaiians before 23,123 in Memphis. Ed Marshall and J.J. Jennings each scored two TDs for Memphis and the Southmen defense ran back two interceptions for touchdowns.

Stars 43, Texans 10

Bell Raps WFL Officiating

Birmingham and New York may be the hottest clubs in the World Football League on the field but the Philadelphia Bell is definitely very hot in the clubhouse.

While Birmingham and New York continue to ride impressive winning streaks, the Bell are hot about what Coach Ron Waller calls, "jaded officiating."

Alanzo Emery scored his third touchdown of the game from a yard out with just 52 seconds left Wednesday night to lift the Southern California Sun to a 31-28 victory over the Bell. The Sun marched 80 yards in 11 plays for the winning TD, aided by two 15-yard penalties, and that's what caused the temperature to rise in the Philadelphia dressing room.

"This is jaded officiating," Waller fumed. "Philadelphia is the low man on the totem pole. Southern California, Chicago and a few other teams are endowed with more money so the officials put us down."

"They called one penalty they said was defensive clipping. It's a disgrace to our league. I'd rather not be here if I have to put up with this."

King Corcoran, the WFL passing leader who threw three TD passes, also got into the act, claiming, "I've seen better refereeing in the Atlantic Coast Football League. Let the WFL fine me. On one play, the referees were arguing with each other about the call."

Irate fans from the crowd of 14,600 in the City of Brotherly Love even chased referee Bob Cooper and the other officials to a station wagon in the parking lot. One fan kicked the car and put a dent in it.

The Bell took a 14-0 lead as Corcoran threw TD passes of nine yards to John Land and 34 to Paul Dunn. Two one-yard plunges by Emery and a pair of action points gave the Sun a 16-14 lead. Alan Thompson scored for Philadelphia and Tony Adams passed 11 yards to Dave Williams for a Southern Cal TD before Corcoran hit Mike Carter with a 27-yard scoring pass for a 28-14 lead.

In other WFL action Wednesday night, Birmingham nipped Jacksonville 15-14. New York crushed Houston 43-10. Memphis humiliated the Hawaiians 60-8 and Orlando downed Portland 11-7. Chicago is at Detroit in the national television game tonight.

Americans 15, Sharks 14

Charlie Harraway plunged two yards for a touchdown with 19 seconds left to lead the unbeaten Americans past the Sharks before 27,140 in Jacksonville. Grant Guthrie had field goals of 31 and 51 yards to give the Sharks a 6-0 lead before Matthew Reed threw 27 yards to Alfred Jenkins for a Birmingham TD. Tommy Duran ran five yards for a Jacksonville score and Reggie Oliver threw to Keith Kreple for the action point before Harraway's decisive TD.

Pete Kramer Resigns Baseball Post at New Paltz State

By IRA FUSFELD

New Paltz State received another jolt this week with the decision by baseball coach Pete Kramer to leave the college and go into private business, the Freeman has learned.

Kramer, who had struggled with a degree of success to beef up the sagging baseball program during his four years at New Paltz, informed the Department of Physical Education and Athletics Chairman Dr. Eugene T. DeLuca of his plans last week, and met formally with him Wednesday to tender his resignation.

DeLuca, upon hearing of Kramer's decision, immediately set forth to interview candidates for the suddenly-vacant position. "Pete's a good man," DeLuca said. "We all thought he was doing a good job. Hopefully we'll find someone as good or better to replace him."

DeLuca began his search for the new man Monday, drawing names from "an active file of candidates."

Kramer said he had been looking for the right opportunity to leave the college, and felt purchasing a well-known Kingston-based sports store was it. He already owns a Mobil Service Station on the State Thruway.

His only remaining formal tie with education will be as a member of the Saugerties Board of Education, on which he is serving his second three-year term. But Kramer admitted his new business association could create a conflict of interest charge which might force him to give up his seat on the board.

Kramer took over the baseball coaching job at New Paltz in 1971 after the varsity team had suffered through several embarrassing seasons. He vowed to put the program back on its feet, and while it was an agonizing process, the diamond Hawks were respectable during his regime.

Prior to coming to New Paltz, the graduate of Plymouth State and Boston University was for seven years on the staff of Saugerties High School. Previously he had been athletic director at North Yarmouth High in Maine.

The search for his replacement will be the second such talent hunt DeLuca has directed in recent weeks. The NP Phys. Ed. Chairman had just concluded interviews for the vacant varsity soccer job and formal announcement of the appointment of J. Peter Van Geem, former coach at the University of Oregon, is expected today.

The soccer job opened when DeLuca relieved veteran coach Bob Durkin from the spot so that he could devote full time to coaching varsity tennis. That decision drew raised eyebrows in some circles, and a protest from Durkin himself.

Kramer is the third member of the staff to leave the college in the last two years. Basketball coach Si Pesavento departed prior to the 1973-74 academic year to take the position of athletic director at Wallkill High School, while wrestling coach Jimmy Valentine will be on a leave of absence this year. The latter, although listed as a one-year absentee, is not expected to return, according to informed sources.

Soon after announcement of Valentine's departure, it was revealed that the college is dropping varsity wrestling as well as varsity track and field, and that all junior varsity activity also would be terminated.

To add to the rush of activity within the department in recent months, it was learned that the contracts of both Kramer and basketball coach Joe Donovan nearly were not renewed. After long discussions with the proper authorities, both staffers got a lease on life. Kramer, however, chose not to accept it.

The athletic department, meanwhile, is eagerly awaiting the return next month of the student body, specifically its financial council, to determine the budget allotment for the coming academic year. DeLuca is hopeful that the students will authorize an amount similar to last year's budget. With a reduced program, the money, he says, will go further this year.

But the financial council has not looked kindly upon athletics in recent years and, judging from past performance, may well cut the budget proportionately to the reduction in the program.

Another factor which could cause hardship to the already struggling department is the Title IX amendment of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which says federally funded institutions must treat women's athletics on a par with men's sports.

Unless money is found from other sources for women's athletics, it would conceivably have to come from the men's budget.

Miller Planning Comeback

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Johnny Miller is planning a comeback.

"I'm gonna be playing a lot from now until the end of the year," Miller says. "You'll hear from me again."

Miller, the 27-year-old 1973 U.S. Open champion who won five tournaments in the first four months of this year and then said he was "drained" from winning so much so fast, has set up a busy schedule for himself the rest of the year.

It starts today with the first round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

His appearance here marks only the third tournament for Miller on the U.S. tour in more than two months, in keeping with the plans he made in the spring to wind down his activity after passing $200,000 in 1974 money winnings.

But now Miller wants to start playing again.

People already are beginning to forget about him, even though he's still the year's hottest golfer, and some even are going so far as to say—get this, now—Miller is in a slump. That brings a snap reaction.

"Anybody who would say I'm in a slump has to have rocks in their head," Miller protests. "I don't consider this a slump. I'm not missing cuts. The tournaments I'm playing in, I'm finishing. I'm not doing bad. I just haven't been playing much, that's all."

"All I need is just having enough enthusiasm to play where he's designing a course, and tops earlier this week in Pensacola, Fla., on Monday and Nashville and Cincinnati on Tuesday.

"I don't know."

Miller isn't the only big name player overcome with ennui on the eve of what was once the tour's richest event but now is one of only a half-dozen tournaments offering a prize of one million dollars or more in half money.

Stan Smith Upset

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — David fell Goliath. Small outlasted. Obscurity is better than fame.

In other words, unseeded Jun Kamiwazumi of Japan swarmed all over the court Wednesday to pull off the upset of the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships, ousting top-seeded Stan Smith in a fierce, nerve-racking second round match, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Kamiwazumi, son of a former tennis star and a three-time Japanese national champion in his own right, has never won a major tournament. But, on the other hand, neither has he ever lost to Smith, whom he beat in June in their only other confrontation at the French National Championships.

Two other seeded players — Jaime Fillol of Chile (11) and Roscoe Tanner of Big Canoe, Ga. (13) — also were upset in Wednesday's action at the Longwood Cricket Club, but third-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania, fifth-ranked Arthur Ashe of Miami, sixth-ranked Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and seventh-ranked Manuel Orantes of Spain all won to move into the third round.

The 5-foot-6 Kamiwazumi, 26, bedeviled the lanky former U.S. Army captain from Sea Pines, S.C., with a variety of ground strokes and volleys aimed at Smith's backhand.

"His forehand is very big," said Kamiwazumi. "I tried to think every time to hit to his backhand," which he did with remarkable consistency.

To avoid Smith's forehand, Kamiwazumi rushed the net with a vengeance which was exactly where he stood after losing the match on a perfect volley return to Smith's backhand on what appeared to be a successful passing shot from the frustrated official tournament favorite.

Nastase sliced up Roger Taylor, 6-0, 6-3, and Vilas smashed Hans-Jürgen Pohmann of West Germany, 6-0, 6-2. If Nastase and Vilas each win their next matches, they will meet in a quarter-final match.

Ashe had no trouble with Doug Crawford of Weston, Mass., 6-2, 6-2, but Orantes, the second straight day, was forced to three sets, this time by Erik van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., whom the Spaniard eliminated, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1.

HANDING OFF: Gary Player is in the process of handing his driver to his famed caddy, Alf (Rabbit) Dyer after teeing off on the third hole during Wednesday's Pro-Amateur golf tournament at Westchester Country Club where the $250,000 Westchester Classic opened today. (UPI)

SU Is Not On Probation

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz State has not been placed on probation in soccer by the State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC), Department of Physical Education and Athletics Chairman Dr. Eugene T. DeLuca said today.

Former soccer coach Bob Durkin had told the Freeman that the SUNYAC had placed New Paltz on probation following an altercation between a player and official last season, but DeLuca said he had no knowledge of any such action and would check with conference officials.

"A review of my correspondence with the State University of New York Athletic Conference Executive Committee discloses no statement that the State University College at New Paltz is under any form of probation," DeLuca reported.

Durkin made his comments following DeLuca's reassignment of the long-time soccer coach to the job of full-time varsity tennis coach.

LL World Series Pitcher's Paradise

(By UPI)
The pitchers were the difference on the mound and at bat Wednesday as Maracaibo, Venezuela and Red Bluff, Calif., advanced to a semifinal showdown in the Little League World Series today at Williamsport, Pa.

Maracaibo beat Jackson, Tenn., 1-0, with a homer by pitcher Alfredo Urdaneta. Mark Keluche, a 5-foot-11, 250-pound full-blooded Indian, was too much for Equismalt, British Columbia. The 12-year-old struck out 11, fired a two-hitter and singled to ignite a three-run rally in Red Bluff's 3-0 quarterfinal victory.

Urdaneta capped his one-hit pitching performance with a solo homer in the seventh inning for his team's 1-0 win. Red Bluff got only five hits off loser Mike Bull in their quarterfinal win but scored its three runs in the fourth inning on Keluche's single, an error, a fielder's choice and a single by Greg Shoff.

Seven Homers Propel Mastro's Win

KINGSTON Mastro's Construction unloaded seven home runs to rout Beekman Arms 12-6 and complete its regular season with a 11-1 record. The setback blasted Beekman's chances of tying the league leaders.

Mastro's only loss was via forfeit when they had to play somewhere else.

In other AAA games, Wayside Inn scored seven runs in the top of the seventh then held both the woe and lost (11-1) Ed Pelham and Friendly Inn and earned run (0.76) titles in 10-0 to create ties for third and Tom Auringer's two homers and five RBIs paced Wayside's squaker over Bud's Subs. Fred Hummell, Dan Daniels and Scott Wilson also homered. Daniels and Wilson each added doubles and singles.

Wayside trailed 8-4 going into the top of the seventh when they exploded for seven runs. In their half, Bud's scored twice before Pat Burke got the third out. Norm Southworth's single, to move into a three-way tie

Glasco A.C. Takes 'A' Title

SAUGERTIES The individual races. Glasco's Gabe DePoala knocked in one run to take that title with 11. Bunny Rioszi ripped a homer for the A.C.'s to tie five others with five. Ray Lasher clubbed a triple and two singles for the winners and Jack Wams had two singles.

A. J. Farms edged Mahogany Ridge 9-8 but was blanked by both the woe and lost (11-1) Ed Pelham and Friendly Inn and earned run (0.76) titles in 10-0 to create ties for third and fifth place in the standings. They withstood a six-run Mahogany Ridge rally in the seventh inning in their winning effort.

However, A. J.'s Tim Murphy held on to take the loop's batting title with two hits and finished with a .433 average. Pelham permitted only two infield singles, while Mike Barber was backing him with three singles and Jack Lechner with two.

A. J. Farms built a 9-2 lead on the Ridge and needed every bit of it. Henry Rua sparked them with a two-run homer, his second while Mahogany had Jeb Bond deliver a triple, three singles and four RBIs. Gordy Freligh knocked in two runs with two singles.

'Good Kentucky Shooting' Win Formula for Bradley

VANDALIA, Ohio (UPI) — Hiram Bradley had only one close call in his shootoff victory for the Clay Target championship of the Grand American Trapshoot here Wednesday.

After breaking 49 consecutive targets, he just nipped the 50th and then went on to crack Nos. 51 through 75 for a perfect score.

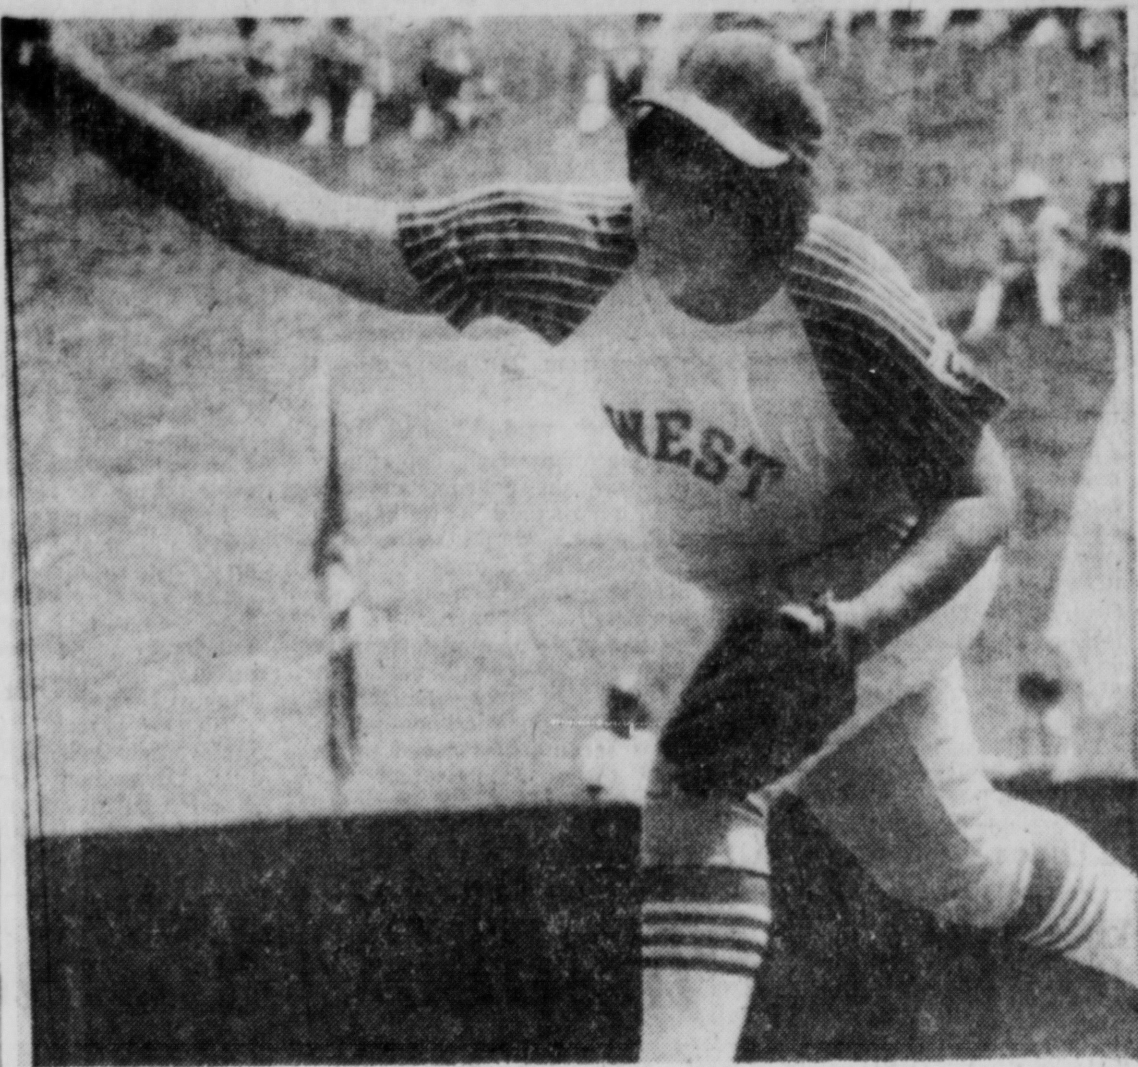

That's good Kentucky shooting, "grinned Bradley, explaining the near miss. "You don't spoil the meat that way."

Double Victory For Ellsworth

ST. REMY, Ind., Aug. 22 (UPI) — Grover Ellsworth Sr. scored a double in the weekly Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club shoot, posting a .933 winning mark in traps and .760 in skeets.

Jim Pirro and Nick Mauro tied for second spot in traps with .920. Bill Costello and Grover Ellsworth Jr. had .900 each. Paul Kristofy and Bob Schmucke tied with .880. Cleveland posted .860. Christensen .760. Howard Williams .700.

Grover Ellsworth Jr. was runnerup in skeet with .740 and Stu Miller had .720.

NO-HITTER — Mark Keluche, a full blooded American Indian who is 5-ft. 11-inches and weighs 250 pounds, at 12 years, pitched his Little League team from Red Bluff, Calif., to a 3-0 win over Victoria British Columbia, Canada, in quarter finals of World Series at Williamsport. (UPI)

It's Eden, Wonderbugs

KINGSTON The Garden of Eden and the Wonderbugs moved into the playoffs of the Women's City Softball League Tuesday.

Division after each knocked off opponents in Tuesday's opening round. The Garden used a 17-hit offense to bury Tony's Pizzeria, 18-5, while the Wonderbugs relied on the pitching of Pat Benson to edge the YWCA, 3-1.

In the Monday Division, the Garden blanked the Kingston Hospital, 6-0 and will face Pier Seven Sports for the title.

Peggy Wright crashed four hits, including a triple and a double. Rosella Curry tripled, and Dianne Armstrong, Barb Van Keuren and Pam Anderson all doubled as the Garden closed out the contest with ten runs in the bottom of the sixth. It was a close game until then with Wright battling Mary Bittner on the mound. Camille Lentz doubled, and Barb Cohen and Audrey Johnson had two hits each for the losers.

Pat Benson throttled the YWCA bats on a two-hitter as the Bugs took advantage of a Y error and three walks by losing pitcher Linda Scott to score all their runs in the second game. Scott allowed only one hit but walked eight in the game.

Beth Priest got both the Garden of Eden 314 0010-13 losers' hits, scoring after a WP — Peggy Wright; LP — triple in the fourth, but Benson Mary Bittner. worked out of two late jams to get the win.

Mrs. Hallenbeck Sets Sawyer Record on 79

SAUGERTIES When many of the PGA Professional Tour players become aware of cracks in their game, they turn to Bob Toski, the most highly regarded golf doctor of the day.

When Mrs. Getrude Hallenbeck, the legendary performer at Catskill County Club, needs help she makes the trip to The Twaalfskill Club for a bullpen session with her old, and only, teacher, Alex Gerlak.

Gerlak, the dean of Northeastern New York PGA professionals, taught Mrs. Hallenbeck the rudiments of the game more than three decades ago when he was head pro at Catskill. His prize pupil went on to magnificent accomplishments that made her a legend in her own time.

Gerlak tinkered with Mrs. Hallenbeck's faltering game a couple weeks ago and the results were spectacular. The Catskill grandmother proceeded to tour Sawyerkill Country Club's demanding par 37-37-74 (for women) in five-over-par 42-37-79. The score, believed to be the lowest ever recorded by a woman golfer over the 6,094-yard layout, won first place, of course, in the 62-player Sawyerkill Ladies Invitational tournament.

Mrs. Hallenbeck made the turn in 42 with a birdie on the 7th hole, then matched par with the help of birdies on the 10th, 15th and 17th holes. She had 31 putts for the day.

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) Delisio of Woodstock had second low gross with 84 and Jo Clark was third with 86. Mrs. Boots Overbagh of Wiltwyck led Class A net with 90-22-68. Nancy Edward (88-19) and Mary Feeney (89-20) tied with net 69. Florence Fielman had low putts.

Phyllis Jackson of Stone Dock led Class B gross with 92. Hulda Needs of Woodstock had 93 and Jackie Schoenbacher of Sawyerkill 97. Low net prizes went to Chelsa Melo, 93-27-66; Marta Peiponen, 94-25-69; and Audrey Potter, 97-28-69. A. Kristovich had low putts.

Mrs. Alice Marr of Woodstock paced Class C gross with 104. Nancy Merrill was runnerup with 105 and Fay Wilkins third with 105. Low net leaders were: Marilyn Daley, 107-35-72; E. Cotich, 106-34-72; and Inez Steele, 109-35-74. Pat Barber won the putting award.

Special prizes were awarded to Phyllis Jackson for the longest drive on the No. 2 hole and to Jo Clarke, nearest to the pin on the fourth hole, 9 feet, 10 inches.

The eight participating clubs in the invitational were Sawyerkill, Woodstock, Catskill, Wiltwyck, Twaalfskill, Rip Van Winkle, Stone Dock and Rondout.

SOCCER STARS — North American Soccer League's championship trophy is admired by Douglas McMillan (L) of the Los Angeles Aztecs and Coach John Young of the Miami Toros at New York banquet. McMillan was rookie of the year and Young coach of the year. (UPI)

Seniors Enjoying Boom

WOODSTOCK Ulster County senior golfers (50 years or over) are filing entries for the 1974 championships on Sept. 8 at a record fast pace. Association president A. J. DeLisio of Woodstock announced.

With the deadline for entries Sept. 4, DeLisio said the 100 maximum entries are expected to be grabbed up well before the deadline.

Invitations have been mailed to all 1973 participants and nearly all have indicated a desire to play this year. Entry blanks are available at all area pro shops.

Northeastern PGA Plans

A Tribute to Gaucas

KINGSTON Area golf clubs are expected to participate in "A Tribute to Johnny Gaucas" under a format similar to National Golf Day. Every PGA club in the Northeastern New York section is cooperating in the tribute.

Gaucas, long-time Northeastern New York secretary-treasurer and now a national vice president of the Association, underwent a second leg amputation this past spring. On Saturday, Bob Haggerty Jr., 1973 Sectional PGA champion and Diane Wilde, Northeastern Women's three-time New York State Amateur Champion, will play at Gaucas' home course, Van Schaick Island Country Club. At 12:30 p.m., two former and establish the target scores to will compete in an exhibition. Admission tickets are $5.00.

At 5:30 p.m., there will be a cocktail party and an exhibition by the famed trick shot artist, Paul Hahn. Dinner is scheduled at 7 p.m. The dinner fee of $50.00 will include both exhibitions, the cocktail party and dinner.

Bob Smith of Wolferts Roost and George Ramsden of Shaker Ridge are co-chairmen of the tribute.

In addition to serving as secretary-treasurer, Gaucas was president of the Northeastern, the National Senior PGA and is now first vice president of the National PGA. He underwent a first leg amputation several years ago but continued to play in Northeastern events.

American Girls Champs

KINGSTON The Kingston American League Yankees defeated the Kingston National League Mets, 5-0 on Sylvia Armstrong's shutout pitching in an opening game of the Girls Little League Softball Round Robin Tournament.

The Yankees will meet the Town of Ulster champions in the next round.

Armstrong struck out five and held the Mets to two hits to make things easy for the winners. The Yankees broke up a scoreless game in the third when Mary Beckwith reached safely on an error and scored

Ellenville to Appeal Decision on Boundary

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE. Ellenville Mayor Robert Dowling said Wednesday that the village would appeal a court decision in a boundary dispute which has given approximately 10 acres of land the village thought it owned at Sam's Point to the Salesian Society Inc.

Though the acreage is a small portion of the about 4,000 acres the village owns in the Shawangunks, it is critical. If the decision of State Supreme Court Justice John H. Pennock stands, the village's water supply system, an "antenna farm" which has AT&T among its tenants, and the Ice Caves Mountain tourist attraction are all in jeopardy.

"There's no way we can't appeal it," said Dowling. "This is too awesome a thing just to say 'It's yours'."

The village board, which learned of the decision Monday night, met in a hastily called session Tuesday night. Dowling said only three members of the five member board could be present.

The mayor said a formal public vote by a fully-manned board would be taken on the appeal, because the appeal will require the expending of money. The appeal is expected to be expensive, and Dowling said there was no money in the present budget for it, but it would have to be made anyway.

Asked if Alex J. Nirenberg, the present village attorney, would be the attorney for the appeal, Dowling said, "Well, as of last night, he is." The village attorney's post has been a source of considerable unrest in Ellenville, with Dowling favoring Nirenberg's predecessor, Albert I. Lonstein. Dowling recently received an opinion from the State Attorney General's Office which said he had the sole power to fire Nirenberg if he wanted to.

Additional outside counsel,

Dowling referred to it as "taking on some additional help", may be called upon for the appeal, he said. The mayor said this had been done in some past village court cases.

The village has 30 days from the time the final order is issued in the case to appeal. The order has not yet been issued by Pennock.

The land in dispute contains a section of the pipe which leads to Ellenville from Lake Maratanza, the village's main water source. The "antenna farm" on the land has several reception and relay stations, the placement of which is reported to be critical. It also contains a section of road needed by Ice Caves Mountain. The road, formerly Yaeger Road, is a very narrow one-lane affair, which loops around the mountain.

Fred Grau, of the Ice Caves Mountain Corp., told the Freeman that if that section of the road could no longer be used, a new section of road would have to be carved out of the mountain for the Ice Caves operation to continue.

Nirenberg declined to comment on the appeal. He said he had been charged with getting out a comprehensive news release on the court decision by the village board, and the news release would be issued "shortly."

Pennock's decision in the case did not deal with damages the Salesian Society Inc., the legal corporation of the Salesians of Don Bosco, a Roman Catholic order, may seek from Ellenville. The question of damages is to receive a separate trial, according to Pennock's decision.

Court papers were first filed in the boundary dispute in October of 1967, and the case was argued in court last September and October, with Lonstein representing the village.

State Presents Oil Pricing Views

By LYNN MULVANEY

NEW PALTZ

The position of the State Attorney General's Office regarding "the pricing and supply policies of the major oil companies has been conveyed to Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago in view of the Legislature's stand earlier this month in which it questioned such policies.

Savago said he received a letter this week from August L. Fietkau, acting bureau chief of State Antitrust Enforcement, telling of the state's investigation into the petroleum industry which has resulted in four criminal and civil actions to date. Fietkau, referring to the "recent rises in the prices of petroleum products and the apparently inadequate supply of those products, referred to the Ulster Legislature's August resolution, said they have indeed had adverse and widespread effects on the economy and have indeed compounded the problems of state and local government bodies."

He said that whether or not the companies involved have taken undue advantage of the situation and have compounded the problem, has been received to date. Fietkau said a most intensive investigation into possible civil and criminal antitrust violations in the petroleum industry has been conducted and that as part of this investigative effort, a special grand jury was convened in March of this year, at the attorney general's request. The term of the special grand jury has been extended.

The investigation into the petroleum industry has resulted in the following criminal actions to date:

- People versus Mobil Oil Corporation — a criminal indictment returned by the special grand jury charging illegal tie-in sales of tires, batteries and accessories.

- People versus Asiatic Petroleum Corporation and Shell Oil Company, et al., resulting in a consent judgement whereby the defendants must make home heating oil available during the summer, at summer prices, instead of holding it off the market in order to wait for higher winter prices. Extensive reporting requirement will aid the Attorney General's office in enforcement of the judgement, he said.

- People versus Shell Oil Company, et al., an action brought against the seven largest oil companies in which it is charged that they engaged in illegal price behavior, in order to eliminate price competition from the independents.

- State versus Mobil Oil Corporation — an action charging price discrimination and other antitrust violations.

Fietkau said that his office is also looking into reports appearing in the news media that the nation's major petroleum companies in recent weeks have reduced their production of gasoline and have operated their refineries below capacity. If the inquiry discloses sufficient evidence of a violation of the state's antitrust law, such evidence would be presented to the special grand jury.

He said the special grand jury is continuing its investigation and as it takes specific action, the results will be made known.

Fietkau said that if the Ulster County Legislature has or acquires any information which it believes relevant to any violation of law by any of the major petroleum industries, they should forward such material to the Antitrust Section of Lefkowitz' office at Two World Trade Center, New York, N.Y. 10047 for appropriate action.

Debrosky 'Zeros In' On Auto Dealers

ROSENDALE

Ulster County residents who have experienced difficulties with new car warranties or service work are being asked to help in the Ulster County Legislature's determination of what type of legislation is needed to deal with the problem locally.

The call for consumer cooperation went out today from Legislator Glenn A. Debrosky (R-Dist. 6) who said he would like to "zero in on the problem."

He said he has been approached by many people with regard to "poor workmanship, no dealer preparation of vehicles, charges for work done and charges for work that should have been done under warranty."

Debrosky said that having just purchased a car himself, he understands the problem. "The only dealer preparation of care that I got was a $50 wash job," he said.

The Rosendale legislator explained that Local Law 1 of 1973 titled "Regulations of

Deceptive Practices in repair of consumer goods in Ulster County was referred back to committee for further study.

The originally proposed law covered all repairs from automobile to household goods. He said he would like to zero in on the one facet — auto repairs and service work on new cars sales.

In order to understand the size of the problem and the scope of the legislation required, he said he is asking the people of Ulster County who have experienced difficulties to send him a signed letter stating the name and address of the dealer or repair man, the nature and the scope of the work and the final results.

"These letters will help determine what type of legislation is needed, if any," he said.

Debrosky said he would keep an up-to-date file which may be made public "if interest is displayed along these avenues."

Letters of complaint may be sent to Glenn A. Debrosky, County Legislature Office, UPO Box 521, Kingston, N.Y. 12401.

MAA FALL LANDSCAPE CLASS

Marbletown Artists Group ...Class at Mohonk House

LAKE MOHONK professional instructors drawn from the association's membership. The Mohonk management has made available a studio for rainy days, as well as developing sketches made on the site. Designed for both experienced and inexperienced painters, the fall landscape class will stress basic techniques in oil painting, geared to both the beginning and the advanced. Experienced watercolorists will be welcome.

The landscape surrounding Mohonk Mountain House, with its lake, gardens, and mountain vistas, will be the site of the fall landscape class sponsored by the Marbletown Artists Association as part of its continuing education program.

The class, to be taught by Claire Cooperstein, is a continuation of the summer's program of classes, organized to reach into the community as an artistic arm, with watercolorists will be welcome.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute has taken exception to a recent article by columnist Jack Anderson that quotes a "secret" Senate Commerce Committee staff report as saying that oil companies "succeeded in tripling the price for oil in little over a year."

The syndicated column, published in the Daily Freeman,

Petroleum Institute Answers Anderson

Takes Exception to Columnist

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute has taken exception to a recent article by columnist Jack Anderson that quotes a "secret" Senate Commerce Committee staff report as saying that oil companies "succeeded in tripling the price for oil in little over a year."

The syndicated column, published in the Daily Freeman,

Hurt continued. "Few enjoy Mr. Anderson's special status of access to government documents, so we aren't in a position to comment on the so-called 'secret report' of the Senate Commerce Committee staff. If, in fact, the report says the oil companies 'succeeded in tripling the price for oil in little over a year' it must have been written by a modern-day Rip Van Winkle who surely must have been asleep during the Arab embargo, and who is completely oblivious to the fact that the OPEC nations have quadrupled their price for oil over the past year."

Commenting on Anderson's contention that the success ratio of exploratory drilling operations for natural gas off the Louisiana shorelines has recently dropped, Hurt pointed out that the number of offshore exploratory drilling operations increased by 40 per cent in 1972 and 1973. "Clearly, there was no lack of drilling activity on the part of the industry," said Hurt.

Hurt also noted that "offshore Louisiana" historically has not been as successful in providing gas wells as "offshore Texas." He said that 52 of 305 exploratory wells off the Texas coastline proved workable between 1969 and 1973. The ratio during the same period, he said, was 55 out of 969.

He also pointed out that "Drilling in offshore Louisiana waters is now taking place in the frontier areas where there is a higher degree of uncertainty and a greater likelihood of failure."

Port Jervis Victim Of Railroad Crisis

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (AP) — This small Delaware River city is the victim of a railroad crisis. Once a major stop on the Erie Lackawanna line, the city has suffered as trucks and airlines have succeeded in luring business away from the railroads.

Several years ago the railroad was the No. 1 employer in Port Jervis. That was before the Erie Lackawanna began rerouting its trains away from here. Now, a company spokesman says, "there is no real reason to go through Port Jervis anymore."

Like many other railroad companies, the Erie Lackawanna is in serious financial straits. Its payroll declined by some 9,000 workers in 12 years, officials say. Rail service has been cut to commuter service to New York City, local freight runs and 10 to 15 freights that pass through the city without stopping.

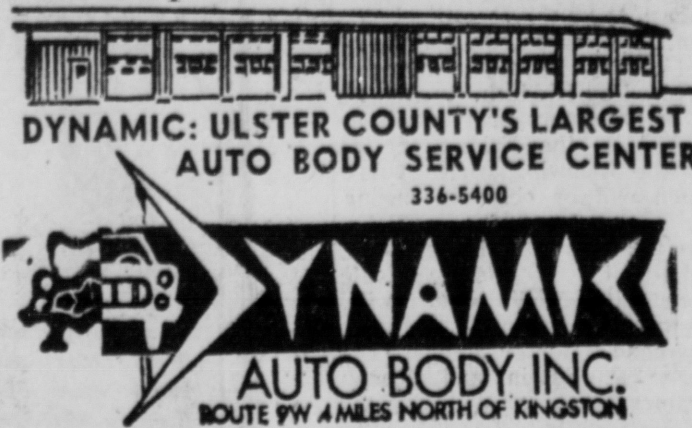

"Port Jervis has been a great loser as a city by having the railroad disintegrate before our eyes," city Councilman Theodore Kuykendall said. "It is nice to say that planes have replaced the railroad, but no planes are leaving Port Jervis. It is nice to say that buses have replaced the railroad, but there are no buses leaving Port Jervis," Kuykendall said. "I can speak very vigorously when I say Port Jervis would love to see the return of the railroad. But it would take something just short of a miracle," he said.

Emmett Lowery, 76, a lifelong Port Jervis resident and retired Erie Lackawanna brakeman, said he has seen many changes in the community as the railroad declined. He said he remembers when the city had a rail yard with 17 tracks. Now there are two. "It used to be quite a city, it used to boom pretty good. Now they are tearing it all down," Lowery said. Since the 1930s, when the railroad was booming, Port Jervis has lost about one-fifth of its population, shrinking to fewer than 9,000 residents, 1970 Census data show.

While the general population dropped, the city's retired population nearly doubled. Most of the retirees are living off railroad pensions, city officials say.

Bernice Beale Osd:

Your Astrograph

Friday, August 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Most of your efforts and energies will be devoted to the enterprises of another. You won't mind putting yourself out for this person.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You won't be happy unless you team-up with someone who is as interested in having fun as you are. Avoid deadheads today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You won't mind working extra hard on things that need doing around the home as long as a willing co-worker pitches in and does his share.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best you find yourself some sort of social outlet. Excitement is your cup of tea today. Get out among some happy friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) For some reason known only to yourself, you feel very defensive and overly-protective regarding your family interest. Relax a little.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't wait for what you want to come to you. If things aren't happening fast enough to suit you, take immediate and direct action yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a good time to call in the marker for an old debt another owes you. He may be able to come through now.

Poor Skurry, the unfortunate opponent takes his ace of diamonds, remarks that he really should have bid seven and lays down his ace of trumps.

When East shows out of trumps, Skurry says something about his rotten luck. Then he runs off several rounds of trumps, plays out his ace and king of hearts in the hope that the queen will drop, leads last heart to Watson's queen and winds up down two.

He asks plaintively, "What good are big cards when nothing breaks for you?"

Holmes replies, the cards did break for you. My diamond lead was an obvious singleton. All you had to do was to play ace, king and a small spade."

Critical of His Wealth

Rocky Fends Off Hecklers

NEWPORT R.I. (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking from the pink party tent of "The Great Gatsby," Wednesday night fended off hecklers critical of his wealth at his first Republican party function since being picked for vice president.

"Let him stay. This is a country of free traditions, of freedom of speech," Rockefeller implored when an angry guest at the $100-a-plate GOP function bodily carried one of the protestors from the tent.

The man, Joseph McDonough, 22, Boston, a member of the U.S. Labor party, returned, started to interrupt, and was told by Rockefeller, "You'll have your chance."

The fund-raiser, a summer event in this posh resort area, was held on the estate of John and Eileen Slocum not far from Rosecliff Mansion where the "The Great Gatsby" was filmed. The tent was used in the movie for lavish party scenes.

"We came here to speak about how Rockefeller is establishing a fascist economy in the United States," said Steven Desmond, McDonough's companion, after Rockefeller's speech. He, too, was escorted out by guests when he began distributing mimeographed position statements of the U.S. Labor party.

During Rockefeller's 15-minute speech, faint strains of "Taps" floated across the huge lawn. They came from a group protesting Rockefeller's 1972 birthday.

In his 15-minute speech, Rockefeller said President Ford offered the nation "openness, dedication and integrity." He said Ford "personified the feeling of all America."

The event originally was billed as an evening with Vice President Ford, but Rockefeller was substituted after Ford became president.

Rockefeller's speech was followed by dinner of Senegalese soup, roast sirloin of beef, potato croquettes, asparagus custard with chilled Bordeaux wine and ice cream elephants, described by the caterer as "The Grand Old Party Desert."

Ready to Assist GOPers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh from his first campaign trip as a vice presidential nominee, Nelson A. Rockefeller says he expects to spend a lot of time helping Republican candidates this fall.

Besides keeping four or five political speaking dates each month, dates made before he was nominated Tuesday for vice president, Rockefeller says President Ford "would like me to take some of his previous engagements."

But the former New York governor emphasized in talking to reporters when he flew here Wednesday night after speaking to a Republican dinner in Newport, R.I., that "it really depends on the President" and that no firm policy has been decided.

Earlier Wednesday, in Providence, R.I., Rockefeller sought to assure congressional Democrats that his campaigning won't be directed solely against them.

"I'll campaign for people, but not against anybody. I've never been a campaigner who slashed out at the other side," he said. A top Rockefeller aide, meanwhile, said the nominee had also discussed with Ford the possibility of taking a major role in the administration's battle against inflation and of becoming head of the White House Domestic Council.

Hugh Morrow, the aide, said nothing final had been decided. Rockefeller's fast-paced schedule here today includes 19 courtesy calls on Senate and House members, including his one-time rival, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz. Goldwater said on Tuesday that some GOP conservatives were upset when Ford chose Rockefeller. Asked about this on Wednesday, Rockefeller said now was the time for national and party unity.

"We've got too many serious problems to deal with petty squabbles and ideological squabbles," he said. Rockefeller also planned to have lunch with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and dinner with Ford before returning to his Seal Harbor, Maine, retreat. Aides said Rockefeller hopes to have 10 days of relaxation after a press conference Friday morning.

In chatting with reporters aboard the Air Force Convair prop plane made available to him by the White House, Rockefeller said one reason he agreed to accept the vice presidential nomination, a post he previously had spurned, is that "this has just got to be a fantastic moment in American history."

It's like tacking a boat, we're on a totally new tack," he said of the transition from the Nixon to the Ford administration. "I think it's very exciting."

Rockefeller said he hopes his confirmation hearings will begin in about three weeks and that a long-time aide, Robert Douglass, will be his representative in making arrangements with the Senate Rules and House Judiciary committees.

He promised to do whatever the two panels demand, including supplying financial data, because "they're taking the responsibility for the vote."

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., head of the Rules Committee, Wednesday asked the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office to begin compiling information on the former New York governor.

A similar request was expected soon from Cannon's opposite number in the House, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., head of the Judiciary Committee.

Rockefeller met Tuesday with Cannon and Rodino, before returning to his vacation home at Seal Harbor, Maine.

A White House spokesman has said both the FBI and the IRS, as well as the office of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, made quick checks on Rockefeller while President Ford was making his decision.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., ranking GOP member of the Judiciary Committee, urged quick action, saying the confirmation process should take no more than eight weeks, the same length it took both houses to confirm Ford when he was last year.

Rockefeller, nominated by Ford Tuesday, has to be confirmed by a majority of the Senate and the House under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution.

"I appreciate his confidence and I am unable to discuss any substantive issues before I'm confirmed," Rockefeller told a GOP fund-raising dinner Wednesday in Newport, R.I. "It would be totally inappropriate."

"In moments of crisis, the nation has produced leaders and we are fortunate that Jerry Ford is one of that tradition. It would be my privilege, if confirmed, to serve him and all the people of this great country."

Rockefeller was interrupted at the black-tie dinner by a man who identified himself as Joseph McDonough, 22, a member of the U.S. Labor party. "I came here to protest the fascist economy of Gov. Rockefeller," he yelled.

"Sit down. You'll have your turn," Rockefeller replied. "This is a country of free speech and courtesy."

The crowd of 500 gave

Rockefeller a standing ovation as the youth was carried away bodily.

"I would say since it took eight weeks to confirm Jerry Ford as vice president that if it takes longer than eight weeks to confirm Nelson Rockefeller, someone is going to be guilty of foot dragging," Hutchinson said.

It was understood the investigation process initiated by Cannon was a duplicate of the one used to investigate Ford when he was nominated for vice president.

The Rules Committee decided to limit its audit of Rockefeller's past income tax returns to six years, the same as for Ford. The audits will be viewed only by Cannon and Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., ranking Republican.

When the committee begins its hearings, Sens. Jacob K. Javits and James L. Buckley, both R-N.Y., will be leadoff witnesses.

'Happy' Guest Of Betty Ford At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller makes her first appearance in Washington today since the nomination of her husband to be vice president Tuesday.

"Happy" Rockefeller, whom her husband said was not "presentable" enough to make the trip Tuesday, was to be Betty Ford's guest at a White House luncheon.

The Rockefellers will then attend a ceremony in the White House East Room, where Ford signs the Housing and Community Development Act.

In the evening, the Rockefellers will return to the White House to be among 16 guests at a small dinner party the Fords are giving in their private quarters.

Mrs. Ford will be able to tell Mrs. Rockefeller about her future home, because she looked it over while her husband was vice president.

Congress has decided that future vice presidents should live in the "Admiral's House" on Observatory Hill along Washington's Embassy Row, and Ford has told Rockefeller he should live there while he was in the capital even though he owns a much more fashionable home in the neighborhood.

Senate Trims $$ From Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has trimmed military appropriations by nearly $5 billion, while balking at proposals to cut even more deeply into the Pentagon's budget.

The action came Wednesday, the same day in which President Ford briefly addressed both the Senate and the House.

Ford renewed his call for cooperation and announced that Pennsylvania Avenue, which connects the White House with the Capitol, has once again "become a two-way street."

Both the House and the Senate passed bills and took other legislative action at a brisk pace in advance of the recess which begins at the end of the week.

In passing the defense spending bill and sending it to a conference with the House, the Senate first rejected an amendment placing an $81 billion spending ceiling on the Pentagon for fiscal 1975. The amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagle-ton, D-Mo., lost 35 to 37. Also defeated was an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to strip $150 million from the $700 million earmarked for military aid to South Vietnam.

In its final form, the military appropriation passed by the Senate totals slightly more than $82 billion. That figure is some $5 billion less than the amount requested by former President Richard M. Nixon.

It is also $1.31 billion less than the sum voted by the House but $3.1 billion more than the amount appropriated in the last fiscal year.

Appropriations Committee Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the cut, the largest in history, was necessary for inflationary reasons but still maintains an adequate defense.

In other congressional action Wednesday, —The Senate readied for final action today a bill giving stronger protection to 35 to 40 million employees covered by private pension plans.

—The Senate passed and sent to the House a compromise bill giving veterans attending school under the GI Bill a 23 per cent increase in monthly benefits. Ford has said he will not hesitate to veto the measure if he finds it inflationary.

—A bill to put a ceiling on federal spending through joint White House and congressional action was introduced by a bipartisan group of senators. The bill would hold the federal budget to $295 billion for the current fiscal year.

—Ford expressed last-minute objections to proposed changes in the Freedom of Information Act but a congressional conference committee went only part way to meet them.

Bill to Ease Home Buying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The and will allow more people to buy houses.

The federal government would establish goals that cities must meet, such as elimination of slums and housing for the poor. But beyond those general goals local officials determine how their grant money is spent.

It also raises the ceiling on home mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, establishes a new federal rental assistance plan and continues the controversial sections of the home ownership and rental assistance programs, which former President Richard Nixon wanted to kill.

The mortgage limit on FHA-insured single-family homes is increased from $33,000 to $45,000, reflecting the rapid rise in real estate values.

The maximum mortgage loan a savings and loan institution can make for a single-family home is increased from $45,000 to $55,000.

Departing from his prepared text, Kennedy had scolded the veterans' group for its passage Tuesday of resolutions opposing amnesty. That action followed by one day Ford's speech to the convention calling for some form of amnesty to allow Vietnam war expatriates to work their way back into their country.

Angered veterans stood and shouted "No! No! No!" Wednesday when Kennedy asked if they had "faith enough to be generous and the strength to be, as he (Ford) said, lenient."

Kennedy called on the veterans to be "large enough, courageous enough, to heed the call of a man who sought your support. On this issue, he deserves it."

But a few hours after Kennedy's speech, delegates to the convention passed a motion by Pat Bohmer, a Vietnam veteran from Minneapolis, Minn., reaffirming the group's "total" opposition to any form of amnesty.

Investigation Gets Underway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate committee that will hold confirmation hearings for Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller has asked four government agencies to begin investigating the nominee's record.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., head of the Rules Committee, Wednesday asked the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office to begin compiling information on the former New York governor.

A similar request was expected soon from Cannon's opposite
